Wacky club for baldies has just one aim — fun

Thousands of men are meeting a common problem head-on — they're members of the wacky Bald Headed Men of America.

The zany group admits it has no serious goals, hopes or plans.

But it has 9,500 members devoted to making the most of what they don't have.

"We want to set a shining example and show men who stare into the mirror hoping for hair that isn't there that they can laugh and be happy about it," chuckled John Capps 3d, founder of the group.

John is the fourth generation Capps to suffer what Mark Twain called "premature baldness."

He was 13 when he started losing his hair.

"I used Rinse-a-way and it worked," he joked.

John was frantic when he was the only kid in high school with nothing more than fringes to brush before a date.

But as he got older he decided to have fun with his chrome dome.

In 1972, when the Morehead City, N.C., hostie was 23, he formed the wacky organisation with his father as the first member.

Now the group has a meeting every year devoted entirely to fun.

It prints bumper stickers that read "Bald is Beautiful" and has put out thousands of buttons saying, "Rub a bald head tonight" and "Skin is in."

"If you don't have it, flaunt it," laughs John. "That's our philosophy."

The group is dedicated to the belief that men with a chrome dome, bald spot or haircut with a hole in it are virile, strong and sexy.

After all, there must be something special about baldness — Telly Savalas and Yul Brynner shaved perfectly healthy hair just to get the shiny look. But, say members, people like Telly and Yul aren't real baldies as they don't count.

At an annual meetings, members' wives and children give humorous testimonials about living with a baldie.

"One little girl got up and said her daddy's head made her laugh because it looked like his neck was blowing a bubble," John said.

Bald Headed Men of America gives its stamp of approval to folks like Joe Garagiola and Pierre Trudeau who don't try to cover their bare spots with toupees, transplants or wigs.

"We were the first ecumenical," says good-natured John. "We just started at the top."

John says he doesn't know and doesn't care how many men in America are bald but he figures a good estimate is 10 percent of those over 30 and 40 percent of those over 40.

Incredibly, the group includes three women.

"There are a surprising number of bald women," says the grinning company president. "But they have the guts to go 'topless.'"

"They say their husbands love it."

Bald-headed actor Yul Brynner couldn't be a member of the club if he wanted to. He shaves his head.

Man trying to buy drugs dials the wrong number and gets a policeman instead

A customer's dopey mistake caused another man to be arrested on drug dealing charges.

An unidentified man telephoning the dealer in Plainfield, Illinois, dialed one wrong digit and got the police station instead.

"Hey pusher you on. Drop pot-like over me. They're the cops," he said to Sgt. Gerald Lee, when the officer said how he was helping to police.

The policeman asked what phone number he wanted and then used the number to set up a drug purchase.

Jere F. Brown, 31, was arrested and charged with possession of marijuana with intent to sell.

Half-baked justice halts judge's career

A high-handed judge got a taste from after humiliating a baker.

Officials of Capivari, Brazil, voted to throw Judge Mamoud Uyeda out of his job after he hauled the local baker to court in his pajamas and bag delivered for selling "bad" sweet rolls.

The judge had been known for his high-handed behavior during his five months in the bench. But his half-baked concept of justice went too far when he ordered the policeman to bring baker Pedro Bromfort, 38, from his bed to the early hours of New Year's day.

"I had to beg forgiveness four times," the baker said. "And even so the judge's wife."

He ensure rolls are now in high demand. "Give me a judge's roll," say a lot of outlined customers.

Bungling burglar stuck in chimney

A bungling burglar was arrested when he got stuck in the chimney of a store near Reading, England.

Passing policemen heard Brian Barnett's cries for help, climbed onto the roof and rescued him. He was later fined 30 pounds for attempting to break in.

Insurance pays for concealed parties

A new kind of insurance could come in handy when love leads to the vows.

Colonial Mutual Compilation insurance will pay for a catered wedding bash that's cancelled. So if a couple breaks their engagement, the host won't be left holding the 300 without holding the party.

But the firm, Robert Theodore Associates of Kitchener, N.Y., has a four-week deductible. That means the company doesn't have to pay if an engagement is broken within four weeks of the proposed party.

"I interviewed 300 caterers," Theodore said. "I found that usually at the four-week period the engaged couple started getting nervous."

Price of the insurance is $25 per $1,000 with a minimum premium of $60. It protects against "terminal, unavoidable circumstance" and is available for all kinds of catered events.

Cops help thief steal a bicycle

A lost bicycle thief pulled off a job with a little help from the police.

The 10-speed bike he wanted was chained to a sign, so he went right to the cops and asked them to cut it loose. They obliged — after the crook employed a bit of trickery.

The story Denver, Colo., policemen demanded proof of ownership. Undaunted, the man left and soon returned with a serial number written on a slip of paper.

Running a check on the number, an officer determined the bicycle had not been stolen — yet. As a detective team ran the check and watched as the man pedaled into the distance.

The cops discovered they'd been hoodwinked when a citizen called to report the theft of his green Schwinn 10-speed.

Cops theorize the thief simply copied the serial number from the bike when he was dispatched for proof of ownership. And they're now searching for the wily crook.

Inmate gets college credit for nothing

A prison inmate has been given 30 credit hours and $60 in college financial aid without opening a book or taking a test.

Records from Miami-Dade Community College in Florida show Myron Lilley, 23, earned several As and Bs and three Ws — for "withdrew."

College officials say the Ws apparently were issued by instructors who had noticed Lilley wasn't in class.

Lilley, who is serving three years in prison for attempted robbery, told he knew nothing about the courses.

Imaginary ticks cause real arrest

A man thought to be the notorious "tick-picker" has been arrested.

This wacky criminal has been going to barbers in the Great Falls, Mont., area searching for imaginary ticks in customer's hair. Although some of the women told him to leave, others allowed him to go through their hair picking imaginary ticks, police said.

Peter Sellers gives his blessing as his widow weds David Frost

By DEE WHITTINGTON

In an eerie message from beyond the grave, Peter Sellers gave his full blessing to his beautiful, young widow, Lynne Frederick, on the eve of her wedding to TV celebrity David Frost.

"Peter Sellers spoke to Lynne from beyond the grave and the message was perfectly beautiful," said incredible top psychic and radio personality Micki Dahne of Miami, Fla.

"He told her he couldn't have selected a finer person and he gave the marriage his full blessing."

Another psychic, world-famous Doris Collins of London, revealed that the heartbroken widow had consulted her to ask for a goodbye to speak to her dear husband.

"Her husband communicated with her and he became visible to her through clairvoyance," said Mrs. Collins. "He spoke to her in typical quips, the same style he used as an actor and I knew it was him.

"He conveyed a wish for her happiness."

Sellers was merely fulfilling a promise he made before death — to visit his beloved wife in spirit.

Shortly after his death, Lynne confessed: "I'm waiting for it. I hope he does. I don't want to give up."

Lovely Lynne, 36, married Frost, 41, in a hush-hush ceremony late last month. The wedding startled even their closest friends — they thought they were going to a birthday party for Frost's brother.

But when they showed up at Frost's hideaway cottage in East Bridge, England, they were ushered to a church a mile away for the happy ceremony.

"We had to use a bit of subterfuge," Frost confided. "We are both so much in the public eye that we wanted our wedding day to be a totally private, personal and religious occasion."

Private it was, but no one could ignore the spiritual presence of the great actor who died in July, leaving his young bride alone and in tears.

"Knowing Peter," Frost said, "and seeing how happy Lynne is, I think he would be very happy."

"Lynne married David Frost," said Micki Dahne, one of the country's top psychics. "And I think she would have married him even without Peter's blessing, but having it made it that much easier for her.

"There are many similarities between the two men, their dry humor, for instance, and their maturity. And don't forget they are both British.

"It will be a little rough for them in the beginning. She'll be comparing David to Peter, but they will work things out and he will be good for her.

"I think there may be a child from this marriage and I wouldn't be surprised if they name him Peter."

Lynne and Peter shared happy days together in their home in Switzerland in the months just before Peter died.

Happy newlyweds David Frost and Lynne Frederick pose outside their home in England after their secret wedding.

Psychic Micki Dahne

". . . The messages are perfectly beautiful. He told her he couldn't have selected a finer person."

Of Peter's death that she discussed her sorrow in a diary, the sound of Hollywood night spots. The fortune she is in line to inherit from her late husband's estate — a whopping $14 million — meant nothing to her, she insisted.

What hurt was that Peter left her childless, she said.

"I wanted to have Peter's baby and we tried for a year," she confessed.

"If I remarry and have children, that's exactly what Peter would have wished. He told me he wanted me to be happy."

And if the brilliant actor who succumbed to heart disease at the age of 54 could not give his beautiful young wife the baby she wanted, he at least gave her his blessings for a union that could be fruitful.

Warden saves burros from certain death

Warden Morris, in the dark suit, inspects the condition of his new burro family. The twin animals were saved from destruction after the government evicted them from their Death Valley home.

Four hungry burros that were rounded up by the government and sentenced to die, were happily spared death when the big-hearted warden of California's notorious Folsom Prison adopted them.

The flop-eared four were part of an overpopulated herd running free in Death Valley which had to be thinned to save desert foliage.

But instead of going to slaughter, the two males and two females have grown fat and happy on 15 acres of grass in the pen's maximum security area. And they're doing the prison a service at the same time.

"We've always considered that grass a fire hazard," Warden Paul Morris told The NEWS. "Now that's where the burros graze. They're really kept it cleaned down for us."

Morris said the burros don't cost the taxpayers a cent, because the grass is all they need to eat. But they do get goodies — kitchen leftovers — from the inmate assigned to care for them.

"He brings them old vegetables and thrown out veggies from which they take and just gobble up," he said.

Morris, who also adopted two diamond pair growing wild burros a couple of years ago, said he's not trying to start a farm.

"We had space for the burros and horses as we took them in," he said.

"We picked the scrawniest ones because they had the most chance of being adopted and were the ones likely to be put to sleep.

"I thought the burros could help us out and they did, but we won't be adopting any more."

Nurse, 28, beats out 150 other women to wed man who advertised for bride

Suzanne Jacobs met her new husband in a very unusual way — through a Valentine's day newspaper ad headed "New Wife Wanted."

The 28-year old nurse spotted the ad in the San Jose, Calif., Mercury last year and answered it to "see what kind of person would advertise for a wife."

The bridegroom was twice-divorced Alvin Mann, 41, owner of Pacific Hotels in Los Gatos, Calif. He met his first wife in high school and his second in the divorce lawyer's office.

The new Mrs. Mann was the favorite of more than 150 girls who answered his ad.

Neither of the newlyweds had previously been married to anything but romance. In fact, when Suzanne popped open the ad, she was looking through the classified section for movies of her own last night.

"I wanted to hurry up the process," Alvin said. "I believe in advertising. I do it a lot in my business."

Less than a year later to the day, Suzanne were on their honeymoon in Hawaii — just in time for their Valentine's day.

Rare twin seals born in captivity

Sydney the seal has given birth to rare twin pups.

Amazed personnel at Marine Mammalia Aquarium in Stamford, Conn., are working hard to keep the furry babies alive because the mother isn't nursing them.

But "seems a little confused," said director Jake Quinn. So staff members are feeding the pups a daily mixture of whipping cream, blended herring, vitamins and amino acids.

Since the aquarium staff successfully raised an abandoned seal pup some before, they're optimistic about the incredible twins.

Sydney's 31-pound daughter and 38.5-pound son could grow up to weigh 600 to 700 pounds.

Scientists give hope to infertile women

In a medical breakthrough, government scientists have developed a technique that could someday allow women with blocked fallopian tubes to become pregnant.

The procedure simply involves surgically moving a mature egg to a point in the fallopian tube just past the blockage so it can be fertilized.

Scientists at the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development say the procedure has been tested successfully on monkeys and that it must be evaluated before it can be tried with humans.

Blockage of the fallopian tubes, the major cause of female infertility, is estimated to affect hundreds of thousands of American women. And surgery to repair defective tubes has been successful in only about half the cases.

Tasty mint aids cancer victims

An amazing mint-flavored artificial saliva is making life easier for patients undergoing radiation therapy for head or neck cancer. And it's helping save their teeth as well.

The new antidote to dry mouth, a side effect of the treatment, was developed jointly by the University of Texas and the Houston V.A. Medical Center.

The dry condition, which often results from chemotherapy for cancer and from some psychoactive drugs, outside prescribed by psychiatrists, often is painful enough to interfere with eating and can cause bleeding.

Effects of the new product, called sialube, last for hours, enabling a patient to sleep through the night instead of having to get up periodically for water. By depriving the mouth of saliva's anti-bacterial activity, dry mouth can set the stage for rampant tooth decay. So the new product is fortified with calcium, phosphorus and fluoride to remineralize the teeth while it provides the mouth with needed moisture.

University teaches love letter writing

A class called "how to write love letters" is being taught at a Washington, D.C., university.

So far a half dozen young students have studied and 30 for a single 90-minute lesson to improve their romantic communications.

It evolved from a business called Our Compliments, a message service operated by course instructor Jay Jeff, 27, and his wife. The couple phones compliments to friends for clients who are too shy to call.

Jeff also teaches a course at Washington Open University called "verbal kissing."

Grandmother rescues 5 kids from fire

A courageous grandmother smashed through a storm window and climbed into her flaming home to save her five grandchildren.

With her arm slashed from wrist to elbow, Mrs. Mary Alice Pearson of Raleigh, N.C., rescued the five youngsters from the dense smoke and flames.

A prisoner of fear, she remains hidden away for 30 years

She was discovered huddling beside her dead husband, her hair matted, her fingernails eight inches long and her body trembling with terror.

By DIANE JACOBS

For 30 lonely, tormented years, a woman was a prisoner of her own fear — too frightened by a bizarre memory to step foot outside her home.

When Edith De-Laughrey was found — crouched and groaning like a terrified animal — she cowered in a nest of rubbish. Her matted hair reached below her waist and her fingernails were eight inches long. On her frail, wasted body were the tattered remains of a dress made in the 1940s.

It was January 1981, but the "animal woman" was still haunted by the memory of a bomb that exploded near her during World War 2. Though married, she had been alone at the time and the memory — the crushing sound — drove her into a mental prison as real as if two bars locked out reality.

Only the death of her 71-year-old husband, Arnold, brought Edith's tragic story to light.

For three days, she lay crouched next to his dead body, too terrified of the outside world to call for help.

But when Arnold failed to turn up for work at a hotel, his employer called a relative.

Arnold's sister, Teresa, drove 200 miles to Widnes, England, and the home that had held a bizarre secret for more than three decades.

"I heard Edie's petrified screams coming from inside the house," Teresa said, "and my nephew and I asked permission to come in. She gave it to my nephew broke a pane of glass.

"As he was reaching in, he saw Arnold and he told me to back away. My brother was dead."

Edith De-Laughrey, 72, was moaning and grunting like a terrified animal.

Her emaciated body was surrounded by piles of rubbish that reached nearly to the ceiling of the 100 000 home.

The body of her dead husband — the victim of a heart attack — lay wedged between the door and a stack of newspapers.

"We pushed the door open and there was this woman, very skinny from malnutrition, lying atop a stack of newspapers," said fireman Peter Halland.

"The smell was awful. Firemen had to wear protective masks and gear to get into the house.

"And there was rubbish everywhere, empty cans, rotten food, human excrement.

"There were newspapers — some dating back to 1948 — stacked up eighteen inches to two feet from the ceiling.

"Most of the doors of the home couldn't be opened because they were blocked by trash."

Locked in her own private hell, Edith had been too terrified even to walk in the rubbish bin outside her door. Her last contact with the outside world — conversations through the mail slot in the front door with Arnold's sister — had ended years before.

The last time anyone remembers seeing her was 30 years ago — at a funeral.

Incredibly, her husband had lived a bizarre double life, working as a porter in a hotel, showing up for work neatly, smartly dressed every night for years.

"He brought his laundry to the hotel," said hotel owner Harold Nelson, "and police unraveled the mystery when they found a garden shed in the backyard where Arnold kept his suits in plastic bags."

After firemen removed the dead body and strapped the poor, terrified woman to a stretcher to be taken to a hospital, authorities began clearing out the house.

It took three days to remove 30 tons of garbage — for in between the papers and the rubbish, they found $26,000 in the cans, $2,500 wrapped in newspapers, seven gold watches, and a 1972 bank statement showing deposits of $7,500.

Bardot, a dog's best friend

Over the years she's found homes for hundreds of homeless dogs and she is always surrounded by the animals. Above, Brigitte and several of her pets take to the road near her home in Saint Tropez in the south of France. At top right, she gives two of her dogs affectionate hugs. At right, Brigitte and Allain Bourdain-Dubourg, one of the men in her life who shares Bardot's immense love for animals, spend a quiet day on the lake near her home. Her animals — six dogs, 20 cats and 50 ducks — are the focal point of Brigitte's life. "They give me great serenity," she says. "They will never

Astounding blind man is an expert car mechanic

Valentino Silva is the most amazing auto mechanic in America — for the past 34 years he's been blind.

Silva's handicap, however, hasn't stopped hundreds of frustrated motorists from bringing their cars to him for his care.

"He's a darned good auto mechanic and I confidently trust my life to him," said Eugene Burton, a customer for 16 years. "He does every kind of repair but electrical work, and I recommend him to all my friends."

Burton told The NEWS how the 61-year-old Silva was able, incredibly, to diagnose a problem with one of his cars that had left frustrated, sighted auto mechanics in the dark.

"Once I bought a used car that started running badly almost as soon as it was off the lot. I took it back to the dealer four or five times, but the mechanics couldn't find what was wrong.

"I took Valentino for a ride in it, and just by listening he told me the timing was off, the crankshaft was faulty and I had a bad piston."

Burton took the car back to the dealer, gave him Silva's diagnosis and instructed the mechanics there to check out the blind mechanic's diagnosis.

"Valentino had been right," he exclaimed. "When those things were fixed, the car ran like a cream puff.

"He's a better mechanic than most guys who can see."

Silva doesn't put diagnose car troubles — he does complicated repair work using his skilled fingers as his eyes.

Silva says he lost his vision in a frightening split second while driving his first motorcycle in 1947. He guided his car to the side of the road and waited for someone to take him home.

He says doctors told him he had a rare optic nerve disorder. Over the years it had worsened until his optic nerves failed.

For the next year, while his automobile repair business in Brownsville, Texas, faltered, he frantically searched for a doctor who could give him some hope of regaining his precious sight.

His optic nerves had stopped functioning and there was nothing that could be done, the doctors said.

In a mood as black as the world that surrounded him, he wished he could die.

"It was the most horrible thing that ever happened to me," he told The NEWS. "All my life I had loved working on cars. It was all I knew or ever wanted to do.

"I asked God why this had happened to me. I wondered how I could afford to feed and clothe my wife and three children."

Then one day, after a year of brooding and dark despair, Silva determined to put the pieces of his life back together again.

"I told myself I'd just have to see these cars in my mind's eye. I'd have to find out if touch, smell and sound would be enough."

Eventually, he felt his way into his shop with his wife on his arm. He felt the cool, familiar metal of a car waiting to be repaired.

In his imagination he saw the wires and valves, pipes and hoses.

It all came to him in a flash. He knew he could do it. He was on his way.

Blind auto mechanic Valentino Silva performs a brake job in the top picture and, above, poses with an automobile engine — a complicated mass of parts and equipment.

Brave rookie cop saves 2 on first day at work

Courageous Shelby Sellers will never forget her first day as a rookie cop. And neither will the couple who owe their lives to her . . . alive today only because Shelby snatched them from certain death seconds before their car turned into a raging inferno.

Her incredible act of heroism came as dozens of motorists watched in horror as the couple frantically sought to escape their burning car after an accident on a Los Angeles freeway.

Shelby, a 22-year-old California Highway Patrol officer, didn't hesitate. "My God, those people are on fire," she gasped as she rushed to the flaming car that caught the duo. Tatyana Ozimek, 47, to safety through the window of the car.

With no thought to the danger involved, she rushed back to the car for Ozimek's wife, Elka, 39, who by then was hysterical as flames ignited her dress.

Shelby pulled her through the window and smothered the flames from her dress.

"There's no question but that she saved those people's lives," said Lt. Phil Downs, a field supervisor officer for the highway patrol.

"I just did what I had to do," said the modest officer who is embarrassed over the attention she has received for "just doing her job."

"As a law enforcement officer, I was responsible for what happened to them and I wanted to save them.

"It was a natural reaction on my part.

"I didn't even think about the flames. I think I knew in the back of my mind God would take care of me."

This art lover uses his head

Viewers of German artist George Baselitz' work need a new point of view to appreciate his upside-down paintings but the fellow above has unloaded the worst.

Visitors to the Royal Academy in London found themselves twisting and turning to view four of Baselitz' paintings which were on exhibition in the gallery.

The models themselves have their feet firmly on the ground but the German painter risks a slipped disc as he captures his subjects from an upside-down stance. Then it's up to the art lover to figure out how to view it.

An important announcement to collectors

The Carson City Silver Dollar

Solid Sterling Silver Commemorative Miniature

Only $1 each if you act within the next 30 days

Because we took a large position in precious silver at extremely favorable prices, we are now able to offer collectors these authentic Carson City Silver Dollar commemorative coins at just $1 each when purchased in rolls of ten. Each is .926 pure sterling silver (a higher silver content than even the original full-size coin) ornament many copies. Each offers extraordinary beauty and value. But to take advantage of this unique $1 offer, you must act now.

Created to take advantage of silver from the fabled Comstock Lode in the Nevada Mountains, the Carson City Mint struck Morgan dollars, which have become the rarest and most desirable of all U.S. Silver Coins.

Designed by George T. Morgan, the coin features the head of Miss Liberty on one side and an eagle within a wreath on the other. The letters "CC"—mark of the Carson City Mint and the only double-letter mint mark in U.S. history appears under the wreath.

Now you have the unique opportunity to possess the world's finest miniature silver dollar—minted in solid sterling silver—for just $1 each, when purchased in rolls of ten. This exquisite coin is a perfect reproduction of the 1878 Carson City Silver Dollar produced at that historic mint.

Value of Silver Changing Rapidly

While the attention of many has focused on the soaring price of gold, it is a fact that silver has changed even more dramatically in value in recent months. Because of this, we are able to offer these exquisite miniature Silver Dollars to you now for just $1 each—but only if you act within the next 30 days.

Die-Struck for Exquisite Detail

Each miniature coin is painstakingly die-struck from polished solid sterling silver, to achieve an extraordinary fine, mint perfection. Every detail of the breathtaking original is faithfully reproduced.

Each coin contains pure sterling silver, and they come to you in "banker's rolls" of ten. Each roll is accompanied by a Certificate of Authenticity. These miniatures are a silver treasure to be cherished for years to come—and, as rolls or as individual coins, they make the ideal gift.

Melissa Gilbert turns 16 and finds sweet romance

Michael Landon Jr. gets one of the hugs from actress Melissa Gilbert that set tongues wagging at a festive Hollywood party.

Little House starlet flips for Michael Landon's son

By GAYE KLINGER

Bubbly actress Melissa Gilbert has turned sweet sixteen and has a new boyfriend — he's the handsome son of her TV father in the top-rated "Little House on the Prairie."

Michael Landon Jr. escorted Melissa to a star-studded benefit for crippled children at the posh Beverly Hilton Hotel and their open affection for each other left no doubt that they felt more than friendship.

Celebrities at the benefit were thrilled by the glowing aura of love surrounding the good-looking teens.

"They were holding hands, hugging, staring into each other's eyes and making romantic vows with their wine glasses," one benefit-goer told The NEWS.

"They were just adorable and so much in love."

Incredibly, Melissa and Michael-ebb Mike Jr. have known each other since they were 9 — when Melissa auditioned the starring role of Laura Ingalls on "Little House" opposite Michael Landon.

In the six years the show has run, the two families have become close and Melissa, daughter of the late comedian Paul Gilbert, has grown to think of Landon, her father on the show, as a real-life dad.

"He's my surrogate father," said Melissa of superstar Landon.

"He's been a wonderful guiding force and I love him."

"I'm sure her mother and Michael Landon are thrilled," said one insider. "They're both nice kids. With so many flakes and druggies in Hollywood, it's nice to see teens together."

Melissa's mother Barbara Alston tried to downplay any serious entanglement between the teen lovebirds. She knows that Melissa, a top student despite a tough work week at the studio, yearns to go to college and then become a fine serious actress.

But Mrs. Alston admitted that Melissa and Mike were close and seeing a lot of one another. She told The NEWS they have been longtime friends.

"They are very fond of each other. They have known each other since they were 9 or 10. They enjoy one another's company and are very comfortable together."

The sudden romantic attachment hit Melissa just after she turned 16 and made her debut into womanhood.

Just months ago, Melissa confided that her girlish interests and busy acting and school career left no time for romance.

"None of the girls who are my friends at school are into the sex or drug explosion," she said.

"I have no time for boyfriends because I'm much too busy."

But the public display of affection and starry-eyed looks between Mike and Melissa show that there's been a grown up change.

"They're in love," said one celebrity watcher who witnessed the lovey-dovey couple.

"This is not definitely hot. There's no question about it."

Parents of 5 make dream come true by adopting 6 homeless kids

A loving couple with five kids of their own has adopted a family of six youngsters that nobody else wanted.

Scattered in foster homes throughout a big city, the youngsters — five brothers and a sister — wanted to be together. Their poverty-stricken mother had been forced to give up the children to the state.

But no family willing to take on the responsibility could be found — until Steve and Joan Hammonds heard of the children's problem.

"I knew in my heart that if we didn't adopt them no one would — it was up to us," said Mrs. Hammonds, whose five children are aged 11 to 25.

The Hammonds discussed enlarging their family with their children, and despite modest incomes from Steve's construction job and Joan's pay as a school bus driver, they decided to adopt the homeless kids.

"I told our two children who are still living at home that it would mean sharing their bedrooms," Joan told The NEWS. "But their hearts had gone out to the children, too.

So all six children, aged 2 to 11, moved in, and the Hammonds' household was filled with joy.

"We have a confinement and happiness in the house we've never had before," said Mrs. Hammonds. "Our natural children have accepted them with open arms.

"When I come home from work, our new kids nearly knock me down jumping and [illegible] and ever again how happy they are to be here and that they never want to leave."

Part of the decision to adopt the homeless youngsters came from Mrs. Hammonds' painful memories of her own lonely, deprived childhood.

"I grew up very poor," she said. "Some days I went hungry because there was no money for food. My parents divorced when I was quite young, and I missed out on a lot of love.

"I didn't want these children [illegible] there was a way to prevent it. I would. God has been very good to us, and I felt this was our chance to repay Him."

The Hammonds are receiving a small subsidy for the adopted children from the state, but not enough to fully cover their expenses.

"God has always looked out for us before," Mrs. Hammonds said confidently. "And He's not going to abandon us now. I know He's beside us all the way."

Special Inaugural Issue... Minted Just Once—1981—Then Never Again!

ALL 39 U.S. PRESIDENTS ON ONE SINGLE COIN!

Special Mint-Struck Presidents' Coin electroplated with GENUINE 24-KARAT GOLD!

AVAILABLE THIS INAUGURAL YEAR ONLY—AND NEVER AGAIN!

Once again, to commemorate one of the most significant events in American life . . . the inauguration of a new president, every living person . . . a strictly limited edition of the most unique coin of its kind ever minted, is now being made available to the public.

YES! AN EDITION SO LIMITED, IT IS MINTED JUST ONE TIME—EVERY FOUR YEARS—THEN NEVER IMITED AGAIN!

Featuring the sculptured busts of ALL 39 PRESIDENTS—including Ronald Reagan, this unusual, first and ever-inspiring Golden "Presidents' Coin" is undoubtedly one of the most inspiring collectibles any American citizen could possibly possess or pass along to children and loved ones. Especially as it is available with all 39 Presidents ONE TIME AND ONE TIME ONLY—during the new Presidential year!

FIRST & ONLY TIME EVER MINTED! COMES WITH ALL THE PRICELESS BEAUTY OF PURE GOLD PLATE!

While previous mintages of this historic coin were struck in jeweler's bronze—this year, to further enhance its heirloom value, the "President's Coin" will immediately after striking, be electroplated with the gleaming beauty of GENUINE 24-KARAT GOLD . . . which truly makes this coin one of the most unique of its kind ever minted.

VITAL COLLECTOR'S STATISTICS:

Size:	3 inch, (almost as large as a silver dollar)
FRONT SIDE:	Sculptured, raised-relief bust of all 39 Presidents
REVERSE SIDE:	All 39 names in "raised sculptured chiseled" letters in circular rows grouped on American Eagle seal.
DATE OF MINTING:	1981 only.
DURATION OF MINTING:	Will never again be made available after Inaugural year, at the end of which time dies are scheduled for destruction.
METHOD OF MINTING:	Double-die-striking, electroplated with EXQUISITE 24-KARAT GOLD

SERIALLY-NUMBERED CERTIFICATE OF AUTHENTICITY

Finally, each of these mint-struck "treasure pieces" will be display-case mounted and accompanied by our serially-numbered Certificate of Authenticity certifying to the provenance of each coin as an original die-struck minting that will never again be available after this presidential year. (Values, of course, you decide over the years, collectors, or of private auctions or whatever price the market will bear.)

FIRST AND ONLY TIME EVER MINTED! COMES WITH ALL THE PRICELESS BEAUTY OF PURE GOLD PLATE!

Considering that this is the first, last, and only time this golden commemorative will be issued . . . we feel this Limited Edition is destined to become one of the most treasured collectibles you've ever acquired . . . certainly one of the richest looking and most heirloom-quality numismatics you could possibly display.

However, we can only guarantee to fill your order for this Limited Golden Edition at this introductory price of only $6.95 per coin, for a period no longer than 30 days following the date of this publication. Orders will be filled on a first-come, first-served basis. And, if for any reason you are not delighted with your Presidents' Coin, return your order within 10 days for refund (less postage and handling, of course). However, as this is a STRICTLY LIMITED EDITION . . . minted for this year and this inaugural year only . . . to make sure you do not miss out, send the Priority Order Form below immediately!

SPECIAL NOTE:

Many people like yourself desire lower serial numbers. The serial number you receive will be determined by the date we receive your order. And of course, lowest assigned serial numbers are always shipped first. This is especially important if you intend to order several "Presidents' Coins" to pass on to your friends as gifts and treasured family heirlooms.

Man beats nightmare disease that could turn him to stone

By GWEN YOUNT CARSON

The doctor's words rang in Warren Johnson's ears like a bell tolling in a nightmare: "You have an incurable disease which will turn your body to stone and eventually kill you . . ."

After the initial shock and outrage had passed, Johnson vowed to fight back. He would design exercises to keep his knee-clacking skeleton from turning to solid bone. He would bring mobility to his rigid joints. He would prove to the world he could battle this thing. And win.

That was nearly 10 years ago. Today the amazing 48-year-old has beat the odds — he is still able to walk, enjoy short outings with his family and teach a university post graduate class at his home.

Johnson, a professor of health education and physical education at the University of Maryland, had been volunteering part-time one day at the clinic he runs for handicapped children when he took a step forward and nearly collapsed.

It took six months for doctors to eventually diagnose stiffness in my shins and joints. My ankle discouraged my body with all but a limp, and then began to give me enough flexibility to maintain. Slowly I regained movement and more mobility.

Johnson tactically performs the exercises every day and while not overcoming the disease, he has managed to keep enough flexibility to go on living a fairly normal life.

One startling example of his will to overcome involved himself and after the doctor threatened to permanently strap his joints to garden.

Doctors warned him his heart should be removed because they would damage it by chewing and breathing and digital more weight to an impossible for him to bear.

Johnson refused to let a handful of shrinking but mostly still a work of foreign defendants what to the confusion of the doctors him. Legal his mouth to smile.

But last September the day came when he was to be in...

Warren Johnson, looking fit and well, sits among some of the equipment he uses to treat physically handicapped children.

...relapse of the heart attack, lungs and liver. Doctors didn't expect Johnson to live through the night. But the tenacious fighter beat the odds again.

The prognosis isn't too good when the disease gives internal

...Unconventional treatment is keeping Johnson "fat with some new drugs we're trying, it may get better."

Warren Johnson's deep determination is keeping himself as functional as possible in spite

I'm really ■ 'Snow White,' says sexy Loni Anderson

By KITTY McHAR

Buxom blonde eye-popper Loni Anderson doesn't see herself in real life as the sexy tigress Jennifer that she plays on the CBS-TV smash sitcom "WKRP in Cincinnati." In real life she thinks of herself as Snow White.

The ex-teenybopper beauty queen even has a hideaway "fantasy room" in her lavish Los Angeles pad, decked out with endless rolls of pictures and posters from the classic Walt Disney cartoon.

"I wouldn't be seen in any of the clothes Jennifer wears," Loni says straight-faced. "I don't wear jersey dresses and stand with my shoulders erect and chest out at home, either.

"You see I really am Snow White in my fantasies." Loni explains. "My daddy called me that when I was little because I had hair black as night, skin white as snow and lips red as roses."

Not to be left out in the cold, hubby Bruce Nickel has his own fantasy — he's Loni's Robin Hood.

"Right after we got married, I gave him a big arrow — so he could be dashing," gives Snow White — sugar! Loni.

Woman turns $1 into $18,000.00 in Las Vegas by using her Personal Biorhythm Analysis

By PAUL VANDERWIST

It was the best birthday Mrs. Sturm could have hoped for. On July 14th, Mrs. Audrey Sturm left her home in La Puente, California for Las Vegas equipped with only $150 and her personal Biorhythm Analysis. As it turned out, she didn't need the $150.

Mrs. Sturm planned her trip this week because her Biorhythm Analysis told she was having an eight day Biorhythm Hot Streak for a few days of winning steadily at "21" ($300.00) and then ($250.00) she decided to go for the big money. Buying a $1 chip, ticket with 8 spots, Mrs. Sturm quickly collected $18,000.00

Mrs. Sturm described the experience in her own words: "My eyes could not believe the results posted on the Keno board! There is no doubt in my mind that I would have missed all of this if I had not known when my Biorhythm Triple High Jackpot Days were!"

Mrs. Sturm is not the only person who received a lucky number on a lot. People nationwide have learned that by using their personal Biorhythm Analysis charts to determine their most successful days, they can greatly increase their chances of success in gambling, sports, business, love and many other areas of life.

AUDREY STURM CARVES HER name and again by following the guides of her personal Biorhythm Analysis.

Results by Letter Predictab

Here are just a few recent stories of people who visited our lab and said it is very big by simply letting their Biorhythm Analysis guide the way to riches.

"I really believe this myself, but I have PROOF. Walking into a local casino today, I dropped a silver in a special slot machine and never took my hand off the lever for a payoff of $1417.50! The Natural Today was the first day that my Biorhythm Analysis said I was in a Triple High Jackpot Day."

Ben, Las Vegas
Nevada

"On my first Triple High Jackpot Day, I played the Pick 4 numbers game in New Jersey No. 1917. When I called that night and heard the winning numbers, I couldn't believe it. No. 3967 came up and paid $3,270!"

Joseph Kowalczyk
Newark, New Jersey

Of course, hundreds more people have experienced phenomenal luck on the first personal Biorhythm Analysis that I told about some of the other amazing success stories, let me first explain a little about Biorhythm.

WHAT IS BIORHYTHM?

The word Biorhythm is derived from the Greek words "bio" meaning life and "rhythmos" meaning repeated flows. There is considerable evidence that we all have three Life Basic Cycles: 1. a 23 day Physical Cycle, governing strength and natural resistance 2. A 28 day Emotional Cycle, governing love and happiness, [illegible] day Mental Cycle governing alertness and memory. These cycles begin the day you were born and then throughout your life you experience a [illegible] Super Jackpot Day (three consecutive days of peak performance) and you do not take advantage of [illegible]

RESEARCH GREAT

The Biorhythm Research Association has now succeeded in learning it is now easily how that good luck day by accurate graphs or mathematical analysis charts. By long the Association's research, hundreds of people across the country had their personal Biorhythm Analysis prepared and reported what happened when they used their analysis. Because of limited space, we have listed only a few of their remarkable stories.

"I lay low last wednesday as my supporting me five eight high jackpot days. I talked my husband into going to the movies and spoken his wife to do to a date theatre and I myself to and was most pen, but that evening. All to me day — this never happened before — nothing [illegible] with a total of $4000 in one day!"

Delores Indiana
Asbury Park, N.J.

"On October 16th while in Reno, Nevada, I experienced a Triple High jackpot day. I decided to take a chance, I dug the last silver I had out of it machines were called for a cash total of $1,810.00."

Elizabeth Lake
Pittsburg, CA

JACKPOT DAYS When many or more Biorhythm Days Crosses on high on exactly the same day, you can perform a Biorhythm Triple High Jackpot Day.

BINGO BONANZA

"While going to the same place to play Bingo for 5 years and only winning small amounts, I found out about my Biorhythm Jackpot Days and went there. I finally hit one — the big one for $1,200.00. Now I never go anywhere on Triple High Jackpot Days. My husband hugged before, but not [illegible]"

Miss Shirley Jones
Hammond, Florida

HIS EYE AT THE RACES

"This being one day anything to my life, I decided I would look in I read my Biorhythm Charts. They say [illegible] of the whole thing, but pick two under a hundred and at [illegible] that I played on my Jackpot [illegible] and paid $48.60."

WEEKLY WORLD NEWS

when I planned to retire before fifty

this is the business that made it possible

a true story by John B. Hadley

Starting with borrowed money Duraclean gave me the opportunity for financial security... In eight years I sold out at a profit and retired.

"Not until I was forty did I make up my mind that I was going to retire before ten years had passed. I knew I couldn't do it on a salary, no matter how good. I knew I couldn't do it working for others. It was perfectly obvious to me that I had to start a business of my own. But that posed a problem. What kind of business? Most of my money was tied up. Temporarily I was broke. But, when I found the business I wanted I was able to start it for a small amount of borrowed money.

"To pyramid this investment into retirement in less than ten years seems like magic, but in my opinion any man in good health who has the same ambition and drive that motivated me, could achieve such a goal. Let me give you a little history.

"I finished high school at the age of 18 and got a job as a shipping clerk. My next job was butchering at a plant that processed boneless beef. Couldn't see much future there. Next, I got a job as a Greyhound Bus Driver. The money was good. The work was pleasant, but I couldn't see it as leading to retirement. Finally I took the plunge and went into business for myself.

"I managed to raise enough money with my savings to invest in a combination motel, restaurant, grocery and service station. It didn't take long to get my eyes opened. In order to keep that business going my wife and I worked from dawn to dusk, 20 hours a day, seven days a week. Putting in all those hours didn't match my idea of independence and it gave me no time for my favorite sport — golf. Finally we both agreed that I should look for something else.

"I found it. Not right away. I investigated a lot of businesses offered as franchises. I felt that I wanted the guidance of an experienced company — entitled to have the benefit of the plans that had brought success to others, plus the benefit of running my own business under an established name that had national recognition.

"Most of the franchises offered were too costly for me. Temporarily all my capital was frozen in the motel. But I found that the Duraclean franchise offered what I had been looking for.

"I could start for a small amount. Today, only $2,500 starts a Duraclean dealership and the company will finance the balance of the $7,995 cash investment over 45 months. I could start it as a one man business to start and operate from my home. No office or shop or other overhead, no salaries to pay. Equipment would fit in my car trunk. I bought the stock later, out of profits. Best of all, there was no ceiling on my earnings. I could build a business as big as my ambition and energy dictated. I could put on as many men as I needed to cover any volume. And I could build little by little, or as fast as I wished.

"So, I started. I took the wonderful training furnished by the company. When I was ready I followed the simple plan outlined in the training. During the first period I did all the service work myself. By doing it myself I could make much more per hour than I had ever made on a salary. Later, I could hire men. Train them, pay them well and still make an hourly profit on their time that made my idea of retirement possible — I had joined the country club and now I could play golf whenever I wished.

"What is this wonderful business? It's Duraclean. And, what is Duraclean? It's an improved space-age process for cleaning upholstered furniture, rugs and tufted wool carpets. It not only cleans but enlivens and sparkles up the colors. It does not wear down the fiber or drive part of the dirt into the base of the rug as machine scrubbing of carpeting does. Instead it lifts out the dirt by means of an absorbent dry foam.

"Furniture dealers and department stores refer their customers to the Duraclean Specialist. Insurance men say Duraclean can save them money on fire claims. Hotels, motels, specialty shops and rug stores make annual contracts for keeping their carpets and furniture fresh and clean.

"Well, that's the business I was able to start with such a small investment. That's the business I built up over a period of eight years. And, that's the business I sold out at a substantial profit, before I was fifty."

Mom & son have bizarre reunion — he's her fiance's adopted kid

When Shirley Rider agreed to marry her boyfriend, she discovered a bizarre coincidence — he's the man who adopted a child she gave away 18 years ago!

Shirley says she was forced to put the baby up for adoption after giving birth to it in a home for unwed mothers in Adelaide, Australia.

When she met her fiance 11 months ago, she immediately noticed that her boyfriend's son, Shane, bore a remarkable resemblance to her. And the kid's birthday was the same as her baby's date she had to give away 18 years ago!

Her boyfriend, whose name was not disclosed, says when he adopted the boy he hadn't been told the name of the kid's real parents.

So Shirley set out to find it out. Indeed, was Shane's mother.

She says she contacted the adoption agency and an official finally admitted that Shane was her child and had been adopted by the man she was marrying.

"To me there was never any question," says Shirley. "The eyes are alike, and he says the only baby born in the home that night."

Shirley says she often thought of her lost son.

"I always kept hoping that giving him up would be something I could forget, but I always kept hoping we might meet one day," she says.

Once Shirley discovered Shane was, indeed, her son, she broke the news to the boy.

"I was a bit confused at first," says Shane. "But I was happy at it. I feel good."

Terror grips community prowled by crazy killer

A peaceful [illegible]ity has been plunged into icy terror by a crazed killer who lives in the wild countryside like an animal!

By RICK DONOVAN

And the frightened men and women of south Bexar County, Tex., have formed themselves into gangs and combed their dogs.

So far two brutally butchered corpses have been found and there's a suspicion are hunting for a 35-year-old "wacko" in connection with the homicide murders.

"We haven't got him yet but we will. We have pretty much where he is," a sheriff's deputy told The NEWS. But even when we do, I don't know if we'll have enough to charge him with.

The deputy said the man is holed up on a 1,500-acre tract densely covered by heavy brush some 15 miles south of San Antonio.

"He's like a wild animal," one resident declared as he stood in the half-open door of his home with a loaded 16-ga. carbine cradled in his arms.

He sleeps in ditches and hides out there and I'll bet he hadn't had a bath in a year.

The town is alright but quiet. Closing in the slaughter of 72-year-old Martha Logan, who lived up a five-acre lane about a mile from where the man is believed to be hiding.

Mrs. Logan was found in a lake of blood on the kitchen floor of her home. She had been bashed in the head repeatedly and stabbed a dozen times with a butcher knife found near her body.

He is also a suspect in the 28th murder of Mrs. Logan's business partner, 48-year-old Clinton Brown.

The crazed killer stabbed Brown to death after needed the excuse to be over at the furniture store Brown and Mrs. Logan operated in San Antonio.

Investigators said the knife had been sharpened in Brown's death but wasn't changed because Mrs. Logan had refused to cooperate. However, in recent weeks the woman had told cops her life was in danger.

Most of the residents in the area where the man is hiding are willing to talk about the terrifying situation, but were startled to be silenced by police.

"It isn't that we don't want to become involved because we are involved," explained one woman. "But we don't want to be sitting ducks either and believe me, this guy is a weirdo!"

Sheriff Joe Hagen has tried to calm the residents fears, but to no avail. As long as the killer is on the loose, residents say they will keep their guns close at hand.

"Some of the parents aren't at home when their kids get out of school," one mother said. "Some of them have to walk quite a way from the school bus. If one of them rains home and found him in the house there's no telling what might happen."

Residents say at night they can see the suspect's campfire glowing in the sky and they are afraid that, sooner or later, he'll get hungry enough to break in some place to get food.

"This guy just isn't with it," a fear-stricken woman declared.

Amazing new super-drugs

Incredible compounds aimed at cancer, arthritis and other deadly diseases are readied for market

An incredible tidal wave of new wonder drugs will soon bring new hope to millions of people now suffering from "incurable" diseases!

American researchers are now on the brink of developing an amazing array of completely safe super drugs that can eliminate pain and agony for millions of sufferers of cancer, arthritis, heart attacks, asthma and other deadly diseases.

I am convinced we are only on the tip side of a tremendous flood of new drugs," Dr Bryce Douglas told The NEWS.

Dr Douglas is chief of research and development for the Smithkline Corp., a major pharmaceutical firm. The Philadelphia firm recently created a startling drug breakthrough with its pain-killing, ulcer-healing, anti-depressant Tagamet.

By DICK DONOVAN

We started working on that drug 15 years ago," Dr Douglas added. "But with what we know now, it wouldn't take a third that long.

Researchers at Merck & Co., in Rahway, N.J., have come up with a compound that makes the antibiotic ivermectin effective against a broad range of diseases causing bacteria, including kidney and urinary tract infections.

Also Merck and the New York-based Squibb Corp. are in a race to develop a new drug that will help lower blood pressure.

It will replace drugs that produce side effects such as chronic bone marrow depression, severe nausea and severe muscle cramps.

Researchers at Richardson-Merrell, Inc., in Wilton, Conn., are working on enzymes to be used in the treatment of some types of cancers.

The drug firm's scientists are also exploring drugs to treat Parkinson's disease, high blood pressure, overeating illness, malaria and dysentery.

Nearing the market is an amazing new drug for heart disease patients that blocks the flow of calcium into arterial cells and heart muscles. The uncontrolled flow can cause damaged hearts to have the spasms that bring on heart attacks.

"It's a whole new type of therapy," Pfizer Inc. research chief Dr. Harry Blumberg explained to The NEWS.

"We're just now beginning to understand how effective it will be.

Pfizer's new calcium-blocking drug is now making its way through the maze of federal regulations before clearing by a computerized drug developed by Knoll Pharmaceutical Co. of Whippany, N.J.

Drug companies are also studying some harmless-like chemicals to reduce ulcers in prophylactic ways, such the formation of ulcers before they develop, easing pain and hemorrhaging.

Meanwhile researchers at Hoffman-LaRoche Inc. — the company that developed the tranquilizer Valium — are making great strides in developing a compound to relieve some types of asthma and to cure obesity in some patients.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) in June is expected to approve Pfizer's long-term once-daily drug Feldene, which appears to be successful against the most painful forms of arthritis.

Among other incredible pain-killers are Johnson & Johnson's Zomax and the Syntex Corp.'s Anaprox. The FDA approved drugs are as effective as some narcotics, but are non-addicting.

These are just a few of the wonder drugs now nearing the market place as pharmaceutical firms begin to realize years of research designed to rid the world of disease and suffering.

"But simply we're getting targets with laser beams instead of cannonballs," explained Merck's research head, Dr. P. Roy Vagelos.

Paralyzed tennis ace Brad Parks returns a shot during a tennis match. The wheelchair is no handicap for him.

Gutsy cripple is a tennis ace in a wheelchair

Brad Parks was paralyzed from the waist down five years ago — but, incredibly, he hasn't let it stop him from becoming an ace tennis player.

Tragically injured when he was 19 while performing a flock flip during skiing competition, the super-athletic Parks had hoped to be a professional skier when he graduated from college.

Suddenly he found himself unable to participate in the sports he had loved so much, but he didn't mope or feel sorry for himself. He began looking for a way to adapt his skills to his new limitations.

"One day I got the idea of picking up a tennis racket and trying to play from my wheelchair," said Parks who is a champion in wheelchair track and has won basketball medals in the National Wheelchair Olympics.

"I discovered I could be quite good and I started practicing.

"Since I heard about others who were trying the same thing and we got together for the first wheelchair tennis tournament there and a half years ago.

"Once I realized people like me could play tennis, I wanted to let them know so they could enjoy it, too.

Last year, Parks teamed with tennis pro David Saltz to start the non-profit National Foundation of Wheelchair Tennis, an organization based in Newport Beach, Calif., to help paraplegics learn to play and enjoy the sport.

He travels around the country giving lectures, conducting clinics and playing exhibition matches with such tennis greats as Rod Laver, John Newcombe, Roscoe Tanner and Charlie Pasarell.

He's already been to Australia and is headed for Europe next year.

Parks estimates there are from 1,000 to 2,000 wheelchair tennis players in the country.

Only one rule is changed. The wheelchair player is allowed two bounces of the ball instead of one, so he can play personally from the back court.

Parks is bubbling with enthusiasm for the project and feels no place in his life for self-pity.

"I credit my positive outlook and success to God," the determined athlete told The NEWS. "When the accident happened I didn't stay depressed long.

"I have God has a reason for everything and I would trust and answer or later what He planned for me.

"The last couple of years, it's become pretty clear what He had in mind.

"Through my disability, I've been able to touch the lives of many who otherwise wouldn't have known they could play tennis from a wheelchair."

MY AMERICA

By ED ANGER

Those barbaric Iranian savages need punishing

Well, America's got her hostages back from those Iranian camel jockeys, but no thanks to Jimmy Carter.

Let's face it — if President Reagan hadn't talked tough and called those camel suckers "barbarians" nothing would have happened. Reagan just scared the pantyhose out of the Iranians or they never would've dealt with Carter.

What burns me up is Carter's attempt to act like the hostage return was some kind of victory for him.

It was worse than the way Carter acted shocked and surprised when the hostages told him how those yellow-livered barbarians tortured them during their captivity.

What did you think was happening all the time, Mr. President? Did you think our hostages were being kept in luxury hotels and taken out to an Arab Disneyland for entertainment?

There's not a red-blooded American alive right now that doesn't want to send his bombers and turn Iran into a blank on the map.

That's not a bad idea. But I don't want to punish a bunch of innocent camel jockeys and just declare war on the world's most barbaric wimps that kidnapped and tortured our people.

The one thing I'm afraid of is that we'll forget this example of low-lived hospitality and start giving Iran aid. If history is any example, that's exactly what our lily-livered government will do.

Mr. Reagan — I sure hope you're like the Republican Party's elephant and don't forget what Iran did.

Right now Iran would probably love some help from America. The mullahs they are involved in a silly spat with Iraq known as the "Great Bombhead War."

By comparison the Iranians couldn't beat a Jello-O salad.

What we need now is two things. First, we need to find out why Carter was so shocked about getting our hostages back and why the joke he called a rescue attempt failed.

Then we need to tell Iran that we want the maggots who tortured our hostages sent over here for trial.

Personally, I'd like to round those low-over-a-slow Iranians up, put them in a room for a week with that yappy woman's father Jane Fonda.

Sailor survives horrible 12-week ordeal at sea

Admiral a month-long death hold. Patrick Degnan [illegible] prayed for a miracle that would deliver him from the screaming fury of the Pacific Ocean. While desperate exhaustion and hunger drove him to the very brink of death, his pitiful prayers were answered — he was unintentionally rescued by the U.S. Coast Guard.

The 36-year-old Canadian sailor and his tiny sloop "Little Friend" were spotted by a Coast Guard plane that had been searching for him in the waters off Maui, Hawaii.

Degnan had been the subject of an intensive air-sea rescue mission that began only days after he sailed for the islands from his home in Vancouver, B.C.

About 800 miles at sea, Degnan's sloop was pounded and battered by a raging ocean storm packing 80 m.p.h. winds that piled up towering waves. The helpless boat was finally smashed broadside by a monstrous wave and capsized.

Degnan was flung into the raging sea and a desperate life-and-death struggle followed as he tried to get his boat right side up.

After what seemed an everlasting eternity he managed to right the boat and salvage some of the provisions food and water that had been dumped overboard.

After the relentless fury of the storm, came a nightmare ordeal of endless days and lonely nights drifting aimlessly in the vast Pacific.

Degnan believed his situation was hopeless because he had failed to notify the Coast Guard of his intended route. They wouldn't know where to search for him when he failed to show up in Maui.

Finally, his father asked the Coast Guard to launch a search. He hadn't heard from his son in almost two months and was certain he'd met with some kind of disaster.

Coast Guard spokesman Jack Stiver said a search along Degnan's possible routes was launched immediately — but it failed to turn up one trace of the lone seaman.

"The problem was, we had no idea where Degnan might be," he told The NEWS. "Looking for a little boat in thousands of square miles of open sea is like looking for a needle in a haystack.

"There wasn't even much hope that we would find any wreckage if his boat had broken up."

As the days passed into weeks, Degnan suffered dreadfully, almost his lifeless body drifting aimlessly at the whim of wind and wave.

Finally the meager food supply ran out and the specter of death became the constant companion. Then, after thirty endless days without food or water, the Coast Guard picked up a signal from an emergency lo-

Butter nut

A woman who nearly squirted her hair his head over an empty jar of peanut butter left in a New York park by a thieves.

The baby farmer

by ROB ADDISON

One of the foulest criminals in history was the syrupy-voiced Mrs. Margaret Waters who preyed on unmarried mothers and their infant children.

The grim career of the 'baby farmer' began on Dec 16, 1869, when the advertisement appeared in a London newspaper:

Adoption — a respectable married couple wish to adopt an infant from birth. Premium, five pounds. Address Mrs Waters, Widows's Post Office, Walworth Road.

An unwed mother named Elizabeth Hall scraped together the five pounds, countervalue of the loss of her child but too stricken by poverty to keep him. In response to a similarly worded ad, Melissa Jones gave her baby to "Fanny Stewart," and a woman identified as "Mrs N Wills" took custody of an infant twin out of wedlock to Jeanette Cowen.

Mrs Wells told the distraught girl that she'd be able to visit her baby, but when the promise was never kept, Jeanette and her father took the case to Sergeant James Relph at the London police — a dogged and deeply conscientious cop with bushes of his own.

His grim conclusion was that Mrs Cowen, Fanny Stewart, and Mrs N Wells were aliases for one greedy woman.

Relph watched the papers. During May and June, 1870, he published 27 adoption advertisements.

Replying to one of the ads, Relph made an appointment to meet a "Mrs V. Thurning" at Waterloo Station.

He told her he and his girl had a beautiful baby boy that were too poor to marry right now. If she could help.

No problem at all, Mrs. Thurning assured him. For a sterling four-pound shilling, she'd give the boy a splendid home and bring him up to be a proper gentleman.

But Relph's business was not quite finished. He trailed the woman through London's jerry-clinked streets to a quiet, dark cottage with boarded-up windows.

When District Medical Officer John Pickle accompanied Relph on a raid of the premises, he was to testify later in Margaret Waters' trial:

"Every room was full to brimming with children. They were all in various stages of some disease all suffering from malnutrition.

"Two dead babies were found in the attic.

Of the living babies removed from the house, nine died within 24 hours. 14 more died later.

At her trial for mass murder, Mrs. Waters smugly insisted she had put many of the "well fed" babies "out with wet nurses for adoption."

But her milkman testified there had been only three pints of milk for some 40 children.

Instead, there had been daily visits from a mysterious character in a plug hat, who carried the tiny corpses away in a burlap sack for five shillings a corpse.

The first woman to be privately executed in England — a punishment called because of growing public rage — Mrs. Waters was hanged in the Horsemonger Lane Gaol on Oct. 11, 1870.

Dad's love for his sick daughter inspires drive to save baby ape

Zoo director Jack Hanna has an armful with his daughter, Julie, 8, and a baby gibbon at the zoo's nursery.

By RICK DONOVAN

The father of a little girl stricken with deadly leukemia is waging an unselfish fight to save the life of another baby — a gorilla named Kwame.

For Columbus, Ohio, Zoo director Jack Hanna says he hasn't eased an eye to the suffering of children, he's just repaying a debt of gratitude to the animal kingdom.

Because of his deep feeling of gratitude Hanna is spearheading a drive to raise $50,000 to save Kwame, a gorilla born at the zoo with a deadly respiratory infection.

"At first I was plagued with doubts about my trying to save a gorilla — an animal — when my own daughter has leukemia," Hanna told The NEWS. "I would ask myself, 'Why am I not out there raising money for those kids dying of leukemia?'

But my daughter Julie would tell me she felt lucky if it was not for the wonderful things have been done on children. And much of this research has been done on apes and monkeys.

Julie's disease was diagnosed two years ago and it sure is remarkable that the bright-eyed 8-year-old is out to be St. Jude's Research Hospital in Memphis, Tenn., every six weeks for bone marrow transfusions and spinal injections.

"My wife Sue and I are very grateful that Julie is still with us," Hanna declared. "She almost died twice and for six months there was nothing we could do but look at her through a window. It was a nightmare."

But we're very grateful

Doctors volunteer their time to care for Kwame, a baby gorilla, born with a deadly intestinal disease.

But we're very grateful for the animals that were sacrificed in the research that has kept our little girl alive."

The critically ill baby gorilla has been undergoing intensive treatment at Columbus' Children's Hospital almost since birth.

The doctors and nurses have donated their services, but hospital fees, which don't be donated," are soaring out of sight and run almost to a staggering $6,000.

"I have three more questions in people's minds about why I'm doing this for a gorilla. For one thing, they're one of the most endangered species.

"But I feel we may uncover a great deal for the sacrifice they have made to mankind and I have to do everything in my power to help repay that debt."

Man, 67, single-handedly builds yacht from junk

A remarkable 67-year-old man has single-handedly built an amazing yacht out of junk — and now he'll cruise the world.

Eugene Hartley says he spent eight years building the 45-foot sailboat and used only his imagination, scrap metal and concrete on the project.

Eugene lived in his car in Neenah, Wis., while he worked on the boat — then he moved onto the ship and cut up the car for building materials.

The remarkable boat builder lives only on his $813 monthly Social Security check — and says that's plenty for him.

Eugene says the boat is solid as a rock — with concrete poured over a heavy steel frame made from his scrap pile.

"As long as I don't clip any supertankers or icebergs, I'll be okay," says Eugene.

He says he's named his ship The Cup and it'll soon set sail to Western Samoa in the Pacific Ocean. Stops along the way include Key West, Fla., Puerto Rico, Brazil, South Africa and Australia.

I chose Western Samoa because it will take me a long time to get there. Maybe as long as two years. It really doesn't matter because I'm in no hurry," says Eugene.

Although he's never sailed anything larger than a 12-foot skiff, Eugene predicts no trouble handling the big boat.

"I feel younger and stronger now than I did when I started building the boat," he says.

Real People's Sarah Purcell is a TV veteran

Q. I think that the best thing on Boob TV is "Real People" as Sarah Purcell. I think she's the most pleasant, vibrant looking woman on television. Is "Real People" her first TV job? Tell us more about her. — Leslie Green, Biloxi, Miss.

A. Pretty Sarah is no stranger to television. She co-hosted a national TV game show "Button Bee," back in 1977 and was Flip Wilson's co-host on NBC's "The Big Show." She worked five years with Regis Philbin on a top-rated Los Angeles area talk show. A Mt. Los Angeles native, Sarah (18) was a cheerleader and runner-up to AFTRA in San Diego. She wants to be an actress and last month started on the TV dance, "Terror Among Us."

Rock Hudson is a lofty 6-foot-4

Q. Inside dope pse. I don't think Rock Hudson is one of the seven handsome men I've ever seen in Hollywood. My husband agrees that Rock is good-looking, but he says that only the rumors might make him look tall. I'm sure he's a big, big man. Who's right? — Martha Dowling, Omaha.

A. Rock Hudson's an honest 6-foot-4, no matter what angle that camera chooses. Ask Hubby to take another look at him in "The Mirror Crack'd" — the talent of Rock's years that 40 films. When Rock goes out in public, women's hearts still flutter — just like they did back in 1964 when he starred with Jane Wyman in "Magnificent Obsession."

Kidnappers don't scare Sophia Loren

Q. Is it true that Sophia Loren is living in Paris because she was afraid that her children would be kidnapped by terrorists in Italy? What are the names of the children? — Rose Barnes, New York City.

A. Sophia disputes that notion. She says the reason she and spouse, Carlo (1), and Edoardo II, live in Paris is because the boys like the privacy school they attend in that city.

Morgan Fairchild

Morgan Fairchild had one nice role

Q. I noticed Morgan Fairchild for years on the soap "Search for Tomorrow" and now I'm happy to be able to see her on "Flamingo Road." Has there also always been to be such a horrible person on the screen? — Gloria Hampton, El Paso.

A. Morgan says the last time she played the role of a nice person was back when she was growing up in Dallas and was a member of Junior Players Guild — a group that put on kid programs. Specifically, she remembers playing a woodland nymph that starred straight Snow White. Now, she's been a bad girl - including her title as a stand-in for Faye Dunaway in her Bonnie and Clyde role.

Gilda Radner's now a Broadway star

Q. The reason I miss the old "Saturday Night Live" the most is Gilda Radner. What happened to her? — Floyd Williams, Boston.

A. You can catch Gilda on the flick "First Family," but she's devoting most of her time to Broadway shows now.

TV great Arthur Godfrey says networks feed Americans trash

The personable host of "Arthur Godfrey and Friends," a CBS TV show in the '50s, mixes up with his guests, the "Chordettes." He says today's viewers get unrelieved rots.

By GWEN YOUNT CARDEN

Arthur Godfrey, one of the most popular stars of TV's Golden Age, says almost all of today's network shows are trash.

In an exclusive interview with The NEWS, the veteran entertainer also blasted Americans for not protesting TV's lousy programs.

America has gone crazy for mediocrity, and it's a pity," agreed Godfrey.

People may call it relaxation to come home at night and turn on the television, but what they are doing is nothing but a waste of time. Most of the shows they watch aren't fit to be on the air.

It's sad to see them spend so much time with their brains in neutral.

"I watch most of the shows for hour or two minutes and turn them off. I have better things to do.

I don't understand where the networks are getting the people they use," he continued. "They were people were celebrities today who couldn't even have gotten through the front door in the '30s.

"It seems like today nobody recognizes a good singer or musician or actor. Most of the people getting rich within on television have no business there."

Godfrey thinks the only worth watching include "M*A*S*H," "Phil Donahue" and "Mary Tyler Moore."

"Carol Burnett are dribble, there's no doubt about that," he said. "But they challenge your mind and get you thinking about things you don't ordinarily think about.

"'M*A*S*H' is a clean act. The actors are superb and the script is excellent.

"What I really like about Mary's show is that he gives lesser-known people on the air. He gives unknowns with something to offer a chance. Too many people are doing that nowadays.

"Saturday Night Live" and "The John Davidson Show" are two programs he counts among the best.

"John Davidson doesn't have any talent at all. He's not good-looking ... he overacts and overdoes," said Godfrey. "I don't know what he's doing on television.

"And shows like 'Saturday Night Live' are boring and unfunny."

Godfrey, who had a regular show on CBS for years and is starring on March 31 in his own special on the Public Broadcasting Service network, said he would like to do his part in getting quality entertainment back on television — but not with another network show.

"I don't want anything to do with the big three networks," he boomed. "They are ratings-hungry and greedy. They don't care about quality. I don't want them dictating their standards to me.

"I'd like to do a syndicated show where each station individually decides whether to air the program or not.

"No one would get on my show who wasn't an artist and who didn't have talent."

TV NEWS

Arthur Godfrey plans syndicated television program.

The long and short of it — love Hollywood style

There was a time when men and women wouldn't dare expose they'd look silly dancing with — but somewhere each considerations have been thrown out the window. Out in Hollywood, for example, happy Teena Aman is being carried around by a shoulder-high boyfriend, pint-sized British actor Dudley Moore. And, switching things around, petite Cheryl Ladd has a broad-sure, physique

Let's get ABC out of the gutter by stopping boring bowling broadcasts

By REX WINSTON

Okay, all you factory workers and office sweatshop nine-to-fivers, your TV fun heaven is back again — The Pro Bowlers Tour. It's always dumbfounded me how in heck this dull show stays on the air year after year. And gets great ratings, too! Me, I'd even settle for Suzanne Somers than look at this junk.

To me, bowling has all the flair and excitement of shuffleboard. It's as interesting as listening to your old man talk about his Army days. Boring, boring, boring.

Let's take a close look at bowling as a sport. If you're really, really good it means that you can do the same exact thing time and time again. No deception, no strategy, no bluffin' and bullshittin', no trash talk. It's you vs. them against another team and whoever plays awake the longest wins.

No number Rip Van Winkle was able to play 36 years — there was no bowling at the alcohol.

Bowling alleys were cool weirdos. Even the pro athletes say so. We think that the legal drinking had to pass a rule that they can't smoke or TV or drink on TV. They, of course, made the bowlers stand. But now it's gotten out and girls TV ratings they should add beads up a double like work it.

Even Lawrence Welk's better than bowling.

And the ABC announcers aren't any great either. There definitely is the top dog at the reporting heart and the other big goof keep in the booth.

Did I hear Chris is on probation for ABC?

First they booted him off the college football game of the week in favor of a younger guy. As punishment they stuck him on bowling.

Chris' manners is what used to separate jet managers every Saturday repeating himself and hoping Dodge — manager Lord Dodge — like the movie.

Sidekick Nelson Burton, an ex-big time bowler, proves that you don't have to be smart to be a pro jock. In fact, I'm surprised he could hit a bowling ball.

My wish for you viewers is that our strike is over and the ABC bosses spare us the agony of watching bowling on TV.

Now get your asshole out of the gutter, be a man to kick good-bye to the other garbage sports the networks will offer us at this summer. You know the kind I mean, aged jock racing Watusi motor blowjobs or tossing the Englishmen from darkest Scotland.

Let's blow the network on this kind of garbage by simply switching off.

The boss and sales blabbermouthers would look get the message — and maybe the networks believe better sports programming.

SIX YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

The Texas Wheelers Feb. 20, 1975 9:30 p.m.

Jack Elam

Penguin's episode: Calgary finds another the charitably gay actors for offers a bunch of dubious versions of how the family must get hooked on

"The Texas Wheelers" was an overly romantic sitcom about four motherless Wheeler children and their no-account, con-businessman, "hot brother" father Leech.

Ellis Leech spending most of his time thinking of ways to avoid work, his eldest son Truxton and the clan, which consisted of Dooley, Gee, and T.J. Their adventures living in rural Texas without much cash but with a lot of spirit, provided the story themes for this short lived series. "The Texas Wheelers" was a product of Mary Tyler Moore Productions, and it was for most embarrassing failure. It was one year and out for the sitcoms.

The best thing about the show was the theme, composed and sung by John Prine.

Jack Elam was the star of the show, but two of the young actors have gone on to bigger and better things.

Mark Hamill starred as in "Star Wars," and Gary Busey just released an album by the name in "The Buddy Holly Story."

. . . Now, it's your turn

I'm feudin' with rude, crude and nasty Richard Dawson

Mr. Winston, what are you going to remove on the almost-lose episode of Richard Dawson of "Family Feud"? He's rude, sarcastic, and when he becomes nasty with contestants he tries to cover up with a weak smile and stupid comments.

He is also disrespectful to ethnic groups — he's a member. There are not supposed even gibberish. He should be thrown off the air.

I also hate the way he throws swears and his use of the embarrassing questions to some of younger contestants. — Pearl Beavers, Trenton, N.J.

Bedroom blues

In this time of recession, high prices and unemployment, people need shows to make them laugh and forget their troubles.

But instead we are being deluged with more and more virginity sex and bedroom scenes.

Have we run low of the sex, but what alternatives are we given to our more human lot to give up entertainment altogether?

There of us who are tired of wish. Why not put the garbage to use instead for those who want to use it? — Mrs. Wallis Shaw, Hendrick, Iowa

M*A*S*H magic

There's cheers for M*A*S*H. It's still the brightest, most witty, most intelligent program on TV. In fact, it's the only decent show on TV. — M. Judd, New Orleans, La.

Lousy scores

There are two voices I don't want to see on TV anymore.

One is when the cowboy finds the six gun empty and seems to every have a change of cartridge. Same with his water canteen, once it's empty — not a gulp.

The second is the parade on the neighbor whose party keeps up. He or she then leaves abruptly into the phone for several seconds, while I squirm in embarrassment. — Mark Lundgren, Kirkwood, Mo.

How modern Chinese Medicine helps

BURN DISEASE OUT OF YOUR BODY

. . . lying flat on your back, using nothing more than the palm of your hand!

THE CHINESE DO NOT BELIEVE IN SURGERY OR MEDICINE FOR MAJOR ILLNESSES. THEY HELP PREVENT SUCH ILLNESSES INSTEAD—WITH A SERIES OF MILD, ALMOST EFFORTLESS INTERNAL EXERCISES.

At last! A new (although it is 4,000 years old), and different type of self-healing. Born in China over 40 Centuries ago, it is called Taoist medicine. And we will let the foremost practitioner of it in the Western world—Dr. Stephen T. Chang—give you a brief and startling introduction to it.

"Presently, growing old conjures images of high blood pressure, arterial sclerosis, embolisms, cancers and diseases of all imaginative types. Untimely death. We humans have been given [illegible] them for dealing with these. We have allowed our bodies and minds to weaken.

"However, the main emphasis of the Internal Exercises is on strengthening our bodies and minds. By performing these simple exercises on a daily basis, we can look forward to living a life free from anxiety of future illnesses and weaknesses due to present illnesses.

"We are thus able to gain control over the vast energy upon which all life depends. We can then use this energy to heal ourselves as well as others."

"... MIND-HEALING, WHICH IS THE NATURAL RESULT OF DOING THESE EXERCISES ON A REGULAR BASIS, IS GUARANTEED."

"The Internal Exercises are easily performed, require no strenuous activity, and do not require a great deal of time to perform.

"They are the very opposite of an external exercise. While external exercise may produce an attractive outer figure, they often do so by depleting the energy of the internal organs, therefore causing not only any number of illnesses, but also premature aging.

"Internal Exercises encourage the circulatory system without speeding up the heart rate. All the exercises are done slowly, without effort. You see, the number of times our heart beats during our lifetime indicates the length of our life. We do not want the heart to wear out prematurely. The heart still does not tire[illegible] during the practice of these exercises and, indeed, through their practice the heart rate actually slows down."

FOR EXAMPLE, LET US GIVE YOU THE SIMPLE, INTERNAL EXERCISE THAT ENERGIZES THE HEART.

No movement is required. All you do instead is this:

Sit or stand, with your hands simply extended in front of your chest at the level of your shoulders as shown on page 83. Make sure that the fingertips of each hand almost touch—but keep about a quarter of an inch [illegible]. Keep your eyes focused on the tips of your fingers. THAT IS ALL THERE IS TO THE ENTIRE EXERCISE.

[illegible] more. Not a single strain on any part of your body. Your heart beat doesn't rise a single beat. And yet, what happens is this—

"This exercise causes a flow of energy which comes in through the fingers of the right hand, comes across the chest and into the heart, then passes through the heart. IT STRENGTHENS THE HEART TISSUES AND SURROUNDING BLOOD VESSELS. With practice, you will be able to feel the entire circle of energy as it passes through your arms, body and heart. Then you will know [illegible] heart."

AND THESE ARE THE RESULTS DR. CHANG PROMISES YOU—

"Solar plexus exercise," in which the Chinese help BURN DISEASE OUT OF THEIR BODIES ... lying flat on their back, using nothing more than the palm of their hand.

"However, by massaging the outside of the legs in a downward fashion, problems, such as high blood pressure, water RETENTION, and overweight ... can be cured or prevented from occurring. Problems of hernia and arthritis can be reversed, or at least prevented from degenerating further.

"Excess fat, water and flesh muscle will be eliminated [illegible]

"This exercise breaks up constipation, [illegible] overnight absorption of nutrition and [illegible] the entire digestive tract."

"This way, invading germs do not have a good environment in which to settle and germinate, because one's bowel movements are so strong and regular. There it is not easy to get disease.

"By following this exercise, you will insure yourself of good hearing into old age.

"Clicking the teeth—as shown to you on page 79—will help tighten the joints in the body, and keep the teeth healthy."

PLUS ALL THIS—BY DR. CHANG:

How to naturally throw your glasses away, simply by rubbing around your eyes for a few minutes each day.

How to keep your lungs strong, acquire fewer colds, allergies, and sinus conditions, simply by stimulating certain points above your nose.

How to use natural healing sweat as a form of medicine, so powerful that it may be used to treat cuts and other infections. And so powerful, indeed, that, when properly used, it helps prevent tooth decay.

Brain cleansing—by breathing.

The cure of poor vision, that helps you see the signs before a disease begins to take hold in your body.

How to check stomach sag, merely by concentrating on your feet.

For men, how to prevent or reverse prostate enlargement [illegible] a simple three-minute sitting exercise.

AS DR. CHANG SAID, "IF ONE NEVER HAS A MILD ILLNESS, THEN A SERIOUS DISEASE WILL NEVER DEVELOP."

Many years ago, most medical men would have laughed at the Taoist medical invention of acupuncture. Now thousands of doctors all over America are using it for their own supplementary treatment. Will the same story now be repeated with these Internal Exercises?

No one knows, but already they are being used by thousands of people to heal themselves, through this great new book.

Here's all you do. To receive a return-mail copy of THE BOOK OF INTERNAL EXERCISES by Dr. Stephen T. Chang, send $12.95 in full payment (which includes handling and postage) to Personal Realization, Inc., 555 Fifth Ave., Dept. WN1-7, New York City, N.Y., 10017.

Try these Internal Exercises for as long as you wish, entirely at our risk. If they do not do everything that Dr. Chang says, simply return the book at any time, for every cent of your money back.

His frontier heroics made him a legend

Davy Crockett's incredible courage

Frontiersman Davy Crockett clawed his way from rags and poverty to become a member of Congress — then died a hero at the Alamo

And even the imaginative film and TV versions of his adventures can't match the real-life drama that filled his life

By SUSAN CHIN

Davy was born in Tennessee in 1786. His father, John, who had been a Revolutionary War soldier, was of Irish descent.

Davy's father tried his hand at innumerable businesses, marrying most of the time at a debt-ridden tavern keeper. Davy's childhood was poor and harsh. At 13, he ran off to the east where he visited Baltimore, Washington, and the other big cities of the young U.S.A.

After three years of roaming, Davy returned home to Tennessee. He settled down a bit and worked to help pay his father's debts. At 18, Davy fell in love with a pretty local girl who valued education so he enrolled in a frontier school.

In a few months Davy learned to read and write and the simple arithmetic — but he quit school as soon as his book-learning girlfriend jilted him. Later Davy fell in love again and married Polly Finley.

David and Polly started their life together with one horse, two cows and $15 in borrowed money. Davy owned a small tract of land and with no farming

The trouble was Davy's small farm was overlooked by the lovely Tennessee forest — and Davy loved to hunt. He was a superb rifleman and fell more at home in the woods than behind a plow. Although his hunting skill kept his family in food, it made Davy hated as a farmer.

In 1813 Davy, Polly and their two children moved all their belongings to another piece of land farther south. At Polly's insistence Davy promised to stick with it and, this time, make a go of the farm.

But before much land was cleared Davy joined Andrew Jackson's frontier army in its campaign against the Creek Indians. Putting his woodsmanship skills to work, Davy served Jackson as a scout.

Davy often returned home on leave during the Creek War and was there when Polly bore her third child and died in 1815. Within a year of Polly's death, Davy remarried. His new wife, the widow of a fellow soldier, had two small children.

Davy and his new, larger family moved west to Giles County, Tennessee where he became involved in local government. He was popular with his neighbors and served as justice of the peace, lieutenant colonel of the local militia, and many commissions.

Davy's popularity with his fellow citizens was based on his friendly and honest personality.

In 1821 Davy's friends and neighbors elected him to the state legislature. Davy easily won the election but when he arrived at campaign style which was a sure fire winner. First, he would make a short speech, and then he'd accompany, "The drinks are on me, fellas," and head for a tavern.

Davy served two terms in the state legislature acting as a spokesman for the little people, who were concerned with reducing taxes and making more land available for settlement.

In 1826, Davy ran for Congress and lost. Never a quitter, he ran again in 1827 and won.

In Washington he stuck to his

humorous ways. He told the Washington press he wasn't concerned about his rough edges. Good grammar, Davy said, "weren't nuthin' worth bothering' about," and correct spelling "went against nature."

People who got to know Davy well realized that his country bumpkin exterior concealed a shrewd, quick intelligence.

In 1829 Davy was easily re-elected to Congress, but in 1831, he was defeated by opposition from President Jackson's party. Davy and Old Hickory had parted ways over several important national policies.

Despite Jackson's opposition, Davy ran again in 1833 and 1835, returning to Washington as an outspoken critic of the President and his ways. In 1835, the power of Jackson's supporters defeated Davy again.

Later that year, Davy and a few friends from home decided to take down to Texas to take a look at some new lands. Davy, being Davy, became involved in the Texans' struggle to free their territory from Mexico.

During early March, San Antonio's fortress, the Alamo, came under heavy siege by Santa Ana's Mexican Army. Many brave men died during the legendary Battle of the Alamo.

One of the bravest, and most beloved, was Davy Crockett.

Evil spirits force church to close after exorcism fails

Two of the remaining few parishioners of St. John the Evangelist Church enter the haunted building they had, they say, defiled on occasion. The church will be closed because of lack of attendance.

Evil forces invaded a peaceful church spreading terror and defying exorcism.

The nightmare at St. John the Evangelist Church at Elton, England had gotten so bad the Church has decided to close its doors after 138 years.

Before the vicar exorcised the house at least a dozen times [illegible] old Cockney churchgoers. Today only 11 people regularly attend services and church officials say St. John's is now dead.

The devil has won this battle but we'll keep fighting back," says Anne Johnson wife of Rev. Christopher Johnson.

Mrs. Johnson says she's been ridiculed by the supporters to declare the haunted church – but she is also sure they have failed in the battle.

There is real hope if the [illegible] people from the church [illegible] and pray for forgiveness," she says.

The Johnsons have lived in the [illegible] for 12 years. Neighbors [illegible] Mrs. Anthony Duncan was asked to be partners in exorcism ritual that had made them [illegible].

Many [illegible] that [illegible] when I did the cleansing yesterday. It was one of the most unpleasant I've ever been [illegible].

Mrs. Johnson says that ritual has dispelled the evil spirits for a short time – but they remained as strong as ever.

Without a more determined [illegible] Canadian vicar says reverend, England.

I have felt physical pain [illegible]

The Rev. and Mrs. Christopher Johnson outside the 138-year-old church that is now possessed with evil spirits.

have been frightened [illegible] many unusual occurrences but there are [illegible] have to be explained with [illegible] Mrs. Johnson says.

She says everyone in town believed that the Reverend had failed to the church into the [illegible] of evil spirits had triumphed.

She says that she and her husband will continue to battle the evil spirits – although the first round to the fight has gone to the devil.

"This is not the end of the story. We will not give up. The evil that is here will be driven out," she says.

Here serves women from two things

A heavy stunt executed a woman on [illegible] the clutches of [illegible] guys who grabbed her as a parking lot.

Mary Mintate, 38, says the [illegible] grabbed her after [illegible] her into the back seat of her car as she walked across an Plant #1 Lenox III parking lot.

Eddie Newell, a former [illegible] police detective in Chicago, says he witnessed the incident and chased the hoodlums car.

"I didn't know what was going on, but I don't believe in letting anyone manhandle a woman," said Eddie.

After a brief car chase Eddie forced the fleeing car onto a curb and the woman jumped out.

Eddie says he clambered out of his car — and the hoodlums thought they had better leave well enough alone.

The thugs threw Mary's purse out the window of their car and sped away.

Eddie then drove Mary to the police station where cops praised his bravery.

Blinding eye defect corrected with low-protein diet

A genetic eye defect that results in complete blindness by the time a patient reaches adulthood is being corrected by a simple, low-protein diet.

Dr Doloresh McInnes, a Canadian physician at the Toronto Hospital for Sick Children, designed the diet that combines low-protein foods with a mixture of amino acids without arginine, an amino acid found in proteins. "These patients have normal vision until they are about three or four," says Dr McInnes. "Complete blindness sets in usually by the time the patient is 20 or 30."

Reading disorder may be inherited

Dyslexia may be inherited — and that conclusion by University of Miami researchers raises hope for early diagnosis and treatment of the puzzling reading disorder that affects some 15 million Americans.

Dr Herbert L Lubs studied eight families that had dyslexia through three generations and found a genetic abnormality in 47 members of the families.

The Miami study comes on the heels of a report by Dr Albert M Galaburda of Harvard University which noted abnormalities in the brain of a dyslexic youth.

"The brain abnormality may be caused by the genetic defect," Dr Galaburda said. "It's a lot easier to provide therapy early if you know what you're dealing with."

Crying baby is not mum's fault

Whose fault is it when a baby cries a lot?

Not the mother's, says Dr. Carmen Lawrence of the University of Western Australia — some babies are simply more irritable than others and the maternal response just won't do anything to change that.

Mothers don't have to carry the burden of guilt as they have in the past when doctors told them they must be feeding the baby incorrectly or transmitting their tenseness or nervousness to the baby, she said.

What's more, she added, mothers do not have to respond every time their infants cry. "The baby will continue to cry anyway," she said.

Nonetheless, Dr. Lawrence thinks there may be some significance to the whines, howls and shrieks. For instance, the boys, babies who cry a lot tend to develop earlier.

Just looking can be fattening, too

Just looking at food can make you fat, says Dr Judith Rodin of Yale University.

The doctor reports "compelling food cues" such as the sight and smell of a sizzling steak will signal the body to secrete higher-than-normal amounts of insulin.

People with excess insulin tend to crave more calories. And they also are more apt to store the fuel they eat as fat.

Surgeon replaces scalpel with laser

Surgeons are now using a laser beam instead of the traditional scalpel to perform operations on hemophiliacs, patients whose blood won't clot.

Dr. Erwin Muenster of the University of Basel in Switzerland has pioneered the use of a carbon dioxide laser to perform brain operations in hemophiliacs and found patient recovery much faster than with conventional surgery.

The laser cauterizes small blood vessels as the beam cuts through layers of tissue, sterilizes and heals. This sealing action may make the technique useful in cancer surgery.

"By cutting the tissue with a laser and thereby closing all the small vessels," he said, "there is less spread of cancer cells in the blood."

Elderly ills treated by vitamin lack

Some of the afflictions of old age may be caused by nothing more than a lack of vitamin B.

That's the opinion of Dr. Herbert Baker of the New Jersey Medical School, after a study of 413 oldsters, aged 60 to 103. He found 80 percent had vitamin deficiencies.

They had anemia, cracked lips, dermatitis, nerve disorders, muscular aches and pains, and poor eyesight.

The doctor points responsibility for these afflictions to deficiencies of pyridoxin, niacin, folate and thiamine, which are all members of the B-vitamin family.

Will your child be a success?

You ... studying your youngster's scribbl...

Shirl Solomon, an expert graphologist, is author of "Knowing Your Child Through His Handwriting and Drawings" (Crown Publishers, New York). She has prepared this guide especially for readers of The NEWS

By SHIRL SOLOMON

Will your youngster grow up to be a success? You can get a pretty good idea by studying the drawings, scribbles and writings of your child and then scoring his or her potential with the help of this fascinating guide below.

Don't be misled by unimpressive grades at school or by sloppy papers with poor spelling and punctuation. Independent thinking children often tend to reject the classroom values. Once you discover your child is uniquely creative, the challenge is to point him in the right direction to encourage him to realize his potential.

Aggressiveness

AT AGE 5½, the child circled the entire paper in scribble up with energetic strokes that seem without hesitation. The drawing may confuse us the first time and while, for there is little sense of limitation.

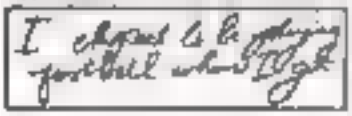
You may later your kids out claiming up after this kit, but later in life he will be a doer where it counts

At 2½, the child has few inhibitions.

AT AGE 8, most children are timid about their "i" and "t" dots, not daring to raise them too high so that the "i" often appears as an "a" and the "t" as a "d." The child with no timidity is challenged to work above the others, feeling he deserves a higher place than is average in the environment. It takes effort in climb, and he does it on his own initiative with pencil and paper — as his mind directs him.

At 8, writer shows no timidity.

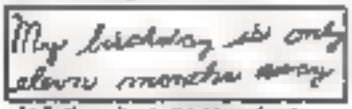
AT AGE 9, the aggressive spirit is not content to be confined to a limited space. This young writer crowded the line below with deep plunging lower loops, intertwined about the risk of collision and whose territory he might be invading. His assuredness will need harnessing while he makes his claim for success



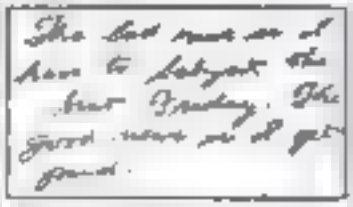
The aggressive spirit at age 9.

Future mindedness

The child that thinks ahead, is anxious for what is before him and not behind, will lean forward in his writing, dot the "i" right of the stem and cross the "t" more to the right of the bar



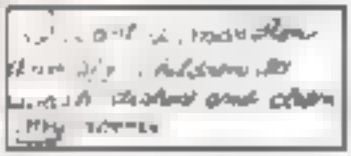
At 7, the writer is thinking ahead.



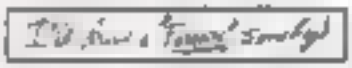
The same characteristics at age 9.

Determination

Determination is frequently a frustrating characteristic for parents to deal with for the child tends to be stubborn and unyielding. However this trait will pay off in the long run for preparing successful. The child does not give up without a fight. This may have parents your child in what he establishes a world of play. The older child will master one or particularized skills to enlightenment knowledge. The attitude carried at the end of a sentence. Legibly shaped and clear in the last letter of the sentence indicates love and he is on the statement he has made

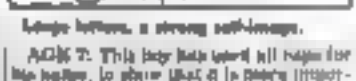


Underscore shows determination.



Determination fruitful at age 12.

Strong self-image

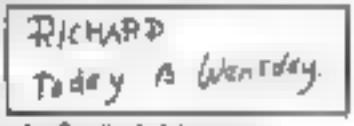


Large letters, a strong self-image.

Your child's first name is his most precious source of identity. If he doesn't like it, it can cause him anxiety and confusion about himself. Assuming this is not a problem you can tell what by clues of himself by how assertively he writes his name. Because it is a beautiful result of a child thinking he is important enough to deserve it.

AGE 3: This little girl has pleasure developing the letters of her name. Writing them large and carefully so that others will know who she is. She is not timid about showing herself

AGE 7: This boy has used all caps for his name. To show that it is more important than what is written below it.

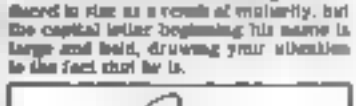


Age 7, writer feels important.

AGE 9: Because she believes herself to be of value beyond that of being a child of her parents she gives greater attention to her name over her family's name.

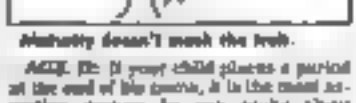
The first name is significant.

AGE 11: The child's writing has reduced in size as a result of maturity, but the capital letter beginning his name is large and bold, drawing your attention to the fact that he is.



Maturity doesn't mask the truth.

AGE 15: If your child places a period at the end of his name, it is the most assertive gesture he can make about himself.



Scoring the child's potential

Here's how to score your child's potential for success:

Aggressiveness. This trait alone will result in frustrated energy, leading to anger against himself and possibly others.

Aggressiveness, future-mindedness. This qualifies for the energy and vision of success, but there will be many conflicts in attaining it.

Aggressiveness, determination. Decisions tend to be immediate, and they are generally pursued for success rather than self-accomplishment.

Aggressiveness, strong self-image. This indicates a personality that likes to dominate people and situations. Success will be aimed at that target.

Future-mindedness, determination. Without letters, this child will plod along pursuing his objectives, patiently awaiting their success. Placing himself, he will be considerate of others along the way.

Future-mindedness, strong self-image. Without aggressiveness and determination, most of it, but he probably won't put his nose to the grindstone to make it a reality.

Determination, strong self-image. Anxious to prove himself quickly, he tends to strive for success without being sufficiently prepared.

Future-mindedness. Isolated, this trait suggests a running away from the present to escape into the remote future.

Determination. Alone, this conveys willfulness.

Strong self-image. Unsupported, the controlling indicators translate this trait as one of self-glorification — not a true success psychology.

Aggressiveness, future-mindedness, determination. This child is destined for success, and he will deserve it humbly.

Aggressiveness, future-mindedness, determination and strong self-image. Dynamically motivated and anxious to apply himself wholly to the business of succeeding, nothing will stand in this

Man plans to give a bath to the Statue of Liberty

An ex-stockbroker is devoting his life to the zany-sounding idea of giving the Statue of Liberty a bath.

Bob Gregg, however, says the idea isn't so silly. He wants to wash the copper-clad statue with hydrochloric acid which will, harmlessly, bring back the statue's natural glister.

"It's just like giving her a bath," says Bob. The acid will remove the green oxidation that's collected on the statue since 1886. Bob says President Ronald Reagan is interested in the project that'll cost millions of dollars.

Bob wants the bath completed by the Statue of Liberty's 100th birthday on July 4, 1986.

Bob, a New York City resident, has been trying to raise the needed funds for the project for 2½ years.

Only recently has a interested Sen. Orrin Hatch of Utah in helping get federal funds for the bath.

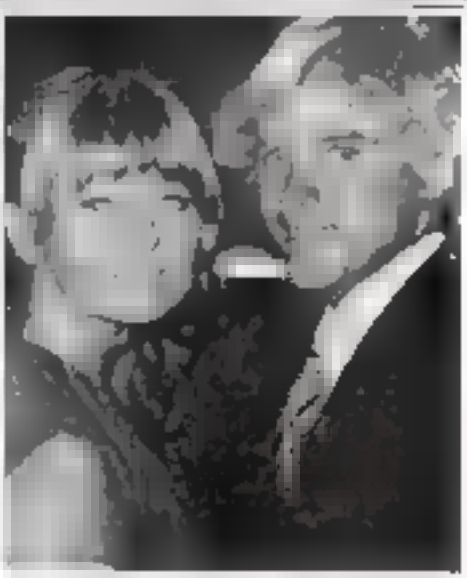
They don't want a girl like dear old mom . . . at least not yet

Vince Van Patten was just 14 when rumors started to fly that he and Farrah Fawcett were in love — a rumor his father denied but failed to end.

Jimmy, seen here with Mary McDonough of "The Waltons," is constantly dating a beautiful Hollywood starlet. He is much quieter than his brothers.



Nick Van Patten and former girlfriend Valerie Perrine. The good-looking youngster is now busily wooing "Dukes of Hazzard" lovely Catherine Bach.

The Van Patten boys are sowing their wild oats — and scaring dad

Dick Van Patten, seen here from left with Vince, Jimmy, wife Pat and Nick, has tried to teach his boys the virtues of a solid home life like his own. So far they have decided to go their own way and do their own thing.

By KERRY AITKEN

The aims of "Eight Is Enough" star Dick Van Patten are just eager to follow as [but] a handful and between happily shielded them.

The truth is the kids enjoy playing the field too much — a preference that spurs their lumberjacking and wife-loving father wrestling his head in exasperation.

"He would like to see his sons have a deep and meaningful relationship with just one woman," said a close friend of the family. "He's a staunch believer in family life and would like to see the boys settled down instead of flitting from one woman to another.

"I guess he feels they have played the field long enough and now it's armchair and slippers time."

The eldest Van Patten boy, Nick, 24, is a tireless jive. Jimmy, 23, is an actor and Vince, 22, is a top-ranked amateur tennis player.

But it is Nick with his clean-cut good looks who attracts women like the pollen attracts bees. Once he breaks up with his beauty he quickly finds consolation in the arms of another.

As a teenager he was involved with Swiss beauty Ursula Andress. Then came sexy Valerie Perrine, and now he is busily wooing "Dukes of Hazzard" lovely Catherine Bach.

Vince, on the other hand, was just 18 when he had Tinseltown tongues wagging. It seems he was seen just a little too often on the tennis courts as doubles partner with Farrah Fawcett.

The boy's father always denied that there was a romance link, but a friend of Vince's said, "I think more than tennis was involved."

The one in the middle, Jimmy, is quieter than the others and his love life is very private. But he is said to be dating one of the most beautiful young starlets in Hollywood.

High fevers fight germs & even kill cancer, say docs

Taking aspirin, cold baths, or other treatments to reduce fever could interfere with the body's natural defenses against germs, claims physiologist Matthew J. Kluger.

"Fever is not a harmful symptom," he said, "but an efficient host defense mechanism. People would be better off if moderate fevers were allowed to run their course."

The view that fevers are one of the body's most important ways of fighting infections gained speedy acceptance in the medical community after Dr. Kluger experimented with lizards.

He injected the animals with a potentially fatal dose of bacteria, and since the animals are cold blooded and can't raise their own temperature, they crawled under a heat lamp.

The temperature of the lizards rose by three degrees, and 75 percent of them survived. Where there was no heat, 72 percent died.

According to Kluger germs don't like high temperatures. The body's usual temperature is 98.6 and a moderate fever can range up to 106 degrees. At 108 the fever is on the borderline of becoming too high, and at 108 it is dangerous.

Fortunately, 95 percent of fevers never get higher than 104.

Some doctors now report dramatic results in hopelessly ill cancer patients who have been infected with fever producing germs. Dr. Lewis C. Parks and George V. Smith of the University of Mississippi Medical School induced fevers of 105.7 to 106 and-stage cancer patients.

Following the treatment, which was combined with low doses of drugs and radiation, 14 percent had a complete disappearance of their tumors and 28 percent had a 50 percent or more reduction. Some are still alive three years later.

In the past doctors feared damaging diseases like syphilis and gonorrhea by giving patients malaria.

Neither syphilis nor gonorrhea causes high fever, but malaria does, and when the patients were given the disease a recovering number were cured.

My hard-headed mom thinks I'm a naughty, pot-smoking girl

Dear Babs...

Babs will be very pleased to help anyone who has a personal problem. Just write to: Babs, Weekly World News, 600 E. East Coast Ave., Lantana, Fla. 33465. Letters will be answered only in this column.

Dear Babs: I'm 14 years old and have a problem I can't deal with. My mom accuses me of smoking pot and going to bed with all kinds of guys. I've never done any of these things, but she keeps saying I do. I've thought about running away. Please, please help me.

Helpless
Hartsville, S.C.

Dear Helpless: During the last few years, the news media have bombarded the American public about the so-called "permissive" society of today with its many sad and sordid stories of drugs. When your mom was young, girls had a very protected life. Sex and drugs were things few young girls experimented. Your mom loves you and she is wrong in her own way, to protect you. You should talk with your mother and tell her how much you need her trust.

Childbirth made me a 14-year-old hag

Dear Babs: I had a child when I was 14 and it ruined my body. My bust and bottom are sagging and I have stretch marks all around my body.

I am nearly 16 now, but I look so old and awful. I've tried my best everything to help.

Droopy Body
Berkley, R.I.

Dear Droopy: As all your body will respond beautifully to whatever you try to do for it.

I recommend body diet and exercise to get back the figure you've lost.

My dear, I don't mean you to lose weight, but to use food that will restore harmony to your body, and strength to your muscles.

There is an automatic for pregnancies to make your body respond. I suggest that if possible, you join a women's health spa where you will receive individual attention to your specific problem areas.

Send all you can along diet and health and if you can't get to a spa, there are many great books on the market that will guide you step by step to a new and more beautiful body.

As you firm up, some of the stretch marks will shrink, but never disappear entirely.

Vitamin E is a good supplement to help the skin, and rubbing cocoa butter into the stretch marks will help too.

Whatever you do, don't get discouraged if miracles don't occur overnight.

Runaways should avoid the dopers

Dear Babs: I was reading the letter to the girl who signed herself "Desperate."

I first met a runaway and desperate like she. I know how you feel. The first thing you have to do is change your environment. Those people you are looking to for help will always disappoint you because — as I understand your letter right — when people are doped they only think of their next fix.

The sad part of it all is that they really could care less if you live or die.

If you really want to be helped, do as Babs suggested. Call your mother or call the runaway hotline.

But most of all, Desperate, I want you to know that I love you. There are many people who care about you — it can't be just give them a chance.

Marianne
Randolph, Vt.

Dear Marianne: Thanks for your beautiful letter. And love you.

He won't marry me without sex first

Dear Babs: I've been my fiance because I refused to make love before we get married.

I'm 17 he's 19 and we want to be married like month. He's dating other girls now and told me that if I loved him we would make love.

I don't date anybody else for I love him and want him back.

I even tried to kid myself at last and broke up. Can you give me some advice on how to get him back?

Heartbroken
Mt. Pine, Ill.

Dear Heartbroken: If your fiance loved you enough to want to spend the rest of his life with you, he would certainly not have let your refusal to have sex mar your relationship.

The promise of marriage didn't get him what he wanted, so he had to move to other ground. His disinterest for you made him as a person you're better off not having in your life.

My boyfriend loves his wife's money

Dear Babs: My boyfriend and I have been dating for over four years.

My problem is that he's married. He says he only lives with his wife for money [and she has plenty]. He also says he loves me and her. I've told him that I want up together, forget the money, but he wants to go on the way it is.

I feel like I've wasted four years of my life with this guy, but we still love each other. Am I right in hanging on?

Confused
Dalton, Ga.

Dear Confused: Your boyfriend has chosen money over love by staying with his wife. This should reveal to you his true character, and make your decision easier.

He doesn't seem to be capable of accepting the kind of responsibility that goes with a real love relationship. Do you think for a moment he'll help support you? He might say like to try to support him so his present wife doesn't keep hanging on. Hooray — find yourself a "real man."

How can I convince wifey she looks silly back naked at the nude beach?

Dear Babs: A few weeks ago my wife talked me into taking her to a nearby nude beach. We thought it would be fun to see if people really sunbathed naked.

Once there, my wife who is 40 got excited about joining in and going nude herself. And

Christ's form is clearly visible in the flames billowing in the open doorway of the blazing shed in this remarkable photograph by Rod Ward. The wreckage has since become a shrine for the faithful

Hundreds of people are flocking to see the incredible image which appeared in the flames of a blazing shed.

The miracle shed was ablaze when a retired Deptford, S.E. fire officer photographed ten firemen drawn in the smoke and created a fire picture.

When he got home and looked at the print he was shocked.

There in the doorway of the shed stood a vision of Jesus with his hands by his side. His face and beard appeared to glow.

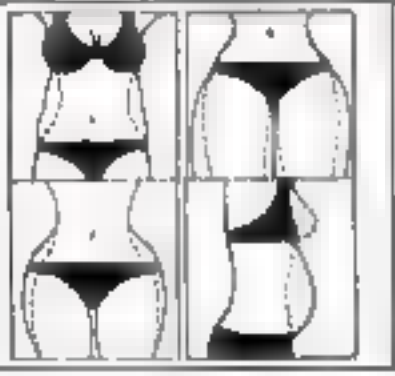
Turn Belly Fat into a Rock-Hard Lean Stomach

with the amazing Speed Shaper

"I'm over 50 and I thought my fat problem was with me for life. SYNOMETRICS 'worked' at first on body. 7 days. In fact results came so fast I had to cut my daily 2 minute workout to 5 minutes to slow down the astonishing progress. It's the most amazing method I've ever tried... and I've tried just about every gadget and gimmick I've seen in magazines and TV."



IN JUST 7 SHORT MINUTES A DAY with the "miracle" of SYNOMETRICS (scientific concept of ISOMETRIC + ISOTONIC) ...the fantastic new discovery for speed shaping away ugly, embarrassing fat and flab...to reveal a brand new rock-hard, lean, trim, handsome body!

IKE BERGER explains SYNOMETRICS™...the new EASY speed method for figure beauty

What is SYNOMETRICS? You've probably heard about the isotonic and isometric principles of body dynamics for years. Each method has its own believers and supporters. I used BOTH methods in my daily training. Finally, I developed a special exercise unit that employed BOTH methods AT THE SAME TIME in one device. The effect was simply amazing. I was able to keep in trim, gain shape in only a fraction of the time I previously needed!

The Science of SYNOMETRICS

I later learned the scientific reason for this amazing result. It's called SYNERDEM—meaning that when you combine two methods the result is greater than the sum of them separately. I now called my new discovery SYNOMETRICS and developed a special exercise unit. I call the SPEED SHAPER. And that's just what it is... a speed method to give you results in minutes, NOT hours! Now... build yourself a "fantastic looking body" with the incredible SYNOMETRICS—the invention that ranks on the exciting new scientific concept of ISOTONIC + ISOMETRIC.

What is the SPEED SHAPER?

Nancy Reagan | Ann Landers | Erma Bombeck | Anita Bryant | Dolly Parton

Nancy Reagan, Dolly Parton are among News readers' top women

First Lady Nancy Reagan is the most influential woman in the country, say NEWS readers.

And she's closely followed by Ann Landers, Erma Bombeck, Anita Bryant and Dolly Parton.

The results of our exciting poll also showed that readers believe Jane Fonda, Helen Gurley Brown, Barbara Walters, Jackie Onassis and Barbara Mandrell help shape the destiny of our nation.

When The NEWS published the World Almanac's list of the top 10 most influential women in the United States last December, we asked readers to choose their own candidates.

Hundreds of you responded, and, apart from country singer Dolly Parton and Barbara Walters, there were few surprises — though farmer First Lady Rosalynn Carter and Dolly Parton hardly got a mention, even though they were on the Almanac list.

Here are the top 10 choices. In descending order:

• Nancy Reagan — readers believe she will give private support to the president and also have profound work as [illegible] poverty and Third World starvation.

• Ann Landers — everybody's pals with Ann.

• Erma Bombeck — she tells us how to enjoy life on the run.

• Anita Bryant — the enemy of homosexuals and perverts.

• Dolly Parton — readers admire her singing voice and acting ability.

• Jane Fonda — she is the actress who has aroused the most controversy with her political views.

• Helen Gurley Brown — publisher of Cosmopolitan and high promoter of working women.

• Barbara Walters — straight-talking interviewer of the rich and famous.

• Jackie Onassis — Ari's classy and sometimes big wheel in New York publishing.

• Barbara Mandrell — singer and new TV star.

Computers get dates for love-shy apes to solve zoos' breeding problems

Big hard-to-please gorillas who refuse to mate with just any ape are getting a little help — from computers.

The sophisticated "dating game" is being played at zoos around the country, matching gorillas with suitable lovemates in the hope of producing offspring.

At Chicago Zoological Park, keepers are waiting with bated breath for the first sighs of pregnancy from Alpha, a 320-pound 21-year-old gorilla.

It's been a year since she was delivered in Samson, Ga., from the Buffalo Zoo for the love match.

"The veterinarians went just as expected," said senior Chicago zoo keeper Carol Schiltz. "He threw her around and bit her bodie. She was submissive."

Not exactly love at first sight — but zoo keepers patiently introduced the lumbering Samson and Alpha spent together until the big male began to appreciate his lady love's finer qualities.

"Alpha's not very tall, but she has a big pot belly," Carol said. And if that was a turn-off for Samson, the 481-pound ape with a 75-inch chest found love with another gorilla at the zoo — a playful coquette named Babs.

"He's mated with both of them, but he won't share his food with Alpha," Carol said.

Zoos are now desperately searching for suitable contraceptions for gorillas, because the animals are rumored shy in captivity and critical experts fear they will die out.

A sixth artificial insemination to produce a baby gorilla at Memphis after a female ape was flown in from Chicago. The blessed event occurred last fall and was the first time in history the attempt worked.

"We can get baby boys and progress by mail in captivity but we don't seem to have much luck with the great apes," said Joe Morgan, deputy director of the Chehalis Zoo.

For four frustrating years Detroit zoo keepers kept hoping 40-year-old Sinclair — borrowed from the Philadelphia Zoo — would take a fancy to their gorilla, Mpenzi.

"From the start Sinclair was intimidated by Mpenzi," Morgan said. "She was twice his size and she'd chase him.

"She was leery of her and he'd run and hide. Now he is a bit larger, but it still doesn't seem to be working.

"We tried artificial insemination and that didn't work either."

With computerized lists of gorillas, zoo keepers can fly them around back and forth for exchanges as a part of year-round programs.

"The key is compatibility," Morgan said. "What strikes our ape's fancy might not strike another's. They're persnickety, particular what they're put up with by us two-legs."

If the weekly-updating computer dating service for apes really works, the Detroit zoo keepers say they hope to be able to [illegible] a mate for [illegible]

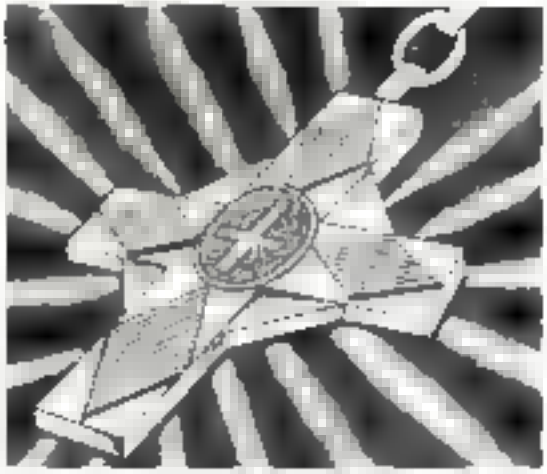
God Sent Me on An Amazing Journey ☒ Receive A Special Message — And to Bring You A Wonderful Gift...

the cross of ANTRON



"I am an ordained Minister of The Knight Federation Church. The story of my amazing experience and how it led me to the Cross of Antron follows..."

MY NAME IS LYDIA STALMAKER

...and because my story may sound too fantastic to be believed at first hearing, I want you to know the following facts:

My story has been thoroughly checked and verified by numerous scientific organizations and by several prestigious universities including professors at the University of North Florida and the University of California at Berkeley. Dr. James Harder, Director of Research at the prestigious Astral Photonics Research Organization and a member of the National Enquirer's Blue Ribbon UFO Panel has said publicly that my story is true "beyond a reasonable doubt."

Articles about what has happened in the Keys appeared in national and international newspapers and magazines. I have been interviewed on international and national television shows. I have appeared on a David Susskind TV interview and numerous radio shows, including CBS Mystery Theatre. I have lectured at such major universities as Bowling University and the North Florida University.

The reason I am giving you this detailed background is that I want you to give serious consideration to my story. For I say believe my message—and if you accept the unbelievable gift I have for you—your life will never be the same again.

I HAVE MET PEOPLE FROM ANOTHER GALAXY—

—as I know. I met first hand experience that room is too alone in the universe. My meeting took place one evening in Jacksonville, Florida when I was kidnapped and taken aboard an Alien Spacecraft from another galaxy, where the Aliens gave me "A MESSAGE FROM GOD" to deliver to the people of this world. They also told me I would receive "GREAT POWERS FROM GOD" that would enable me to help mankind and to demonstrate the power to others may believe. I have been using these powers for GOD'S GLORY and His work.

I can't help but be a little nervous about my experience, filled with facts and proof including a testimonial and many other facts given me by the Aliens and scientists. The book will be called "The Antron Principles" and it is to be published soon.

"Experts say my story is true beyond a reasonable doubt."

THE MESSAGE OF ANTRON—

Aboard the spacecraft there was a woman named Antron, who told me they came from a green planet, located in another galaxy. And that she is their words of wisdom that the most important thing Antron told me is that all people of the universe, whatever their religion, love God and His Powers.

I HAVE RECEIVED THE GIFT OF HEALING

I was given the gift of healing. And since the happened, many of my healings have been scientifically documented. When I was aboard the craft with Antron, I was given unique insights that was called "Symbol Color Aspect Imagery" as to design the Symbol on a cross so that Earth people might receive the benefits. Also I was told to wear the cross as a point of contact for God's Blessings and Infinite Power in my life.

On the cross, eight adjacent pyramids are connected by four single pyramids. And at the center of the cross appears the galactic symbol of the Universal Life Force. It is a bio-magnetic cross, and Antron says that the universal life force keeps from this cross in flashes of intense energy — just as the universal life force flashes out of my hands when I am engaged in the process of healing others. Over a hundredth of right for many people to me that.

ANTRON HAS GIVEN ME A MISSION—

Antron says that those on the Spacecraft had come because our world is going through a period of declining faith, and the word about life in other galaxies—and about the eternal power of faith and of God. They have given me an instrument to spread the word, and that instrument is— THE CROSS OF ANTRON!

"The cross was designed by Antron — and the Universal Life Force surges and flows in powerful rivers of energy!"

ANTRON'S GIFT TO THE PEOPLE OF EARTH

Antron's gift to prove these prophecies is the indescribable cross. And they stated that unexplained things will happen to those who wear it. But they will share in its tremendous life force energy.

I wear the cross prophetic to help spread Antron's message of hope to the people of earth. And whatever destiny I have left, after passing my responsibilities for this project will go for this purpose.

But the power of the Cross of Antron is really a wonderful gift, and if human eyes and ears long to share in the excitement of discovery, we invite you to join it.

WHAT DO YOU WANT—

Are you ill or sick? Is a loved one troubled? Is your family sick? Wear the Cross of Antron. And please write and tell us "PRAISE" how you feel. Each letter I have prayed over and blessed in Jesus' Name.

"Antron invites you to share in the power of this amazing cross."

And please, please write and tell me all the blessings you believe the Cross of Antron brought to you.

here is my proof...

"The powers of this amazing cross are a gift from God, who has made all things. Through Antron a being from another Galaxy — it has now been brought to us, the people of Earth.

Here is why I believe the Cross of Antron has such amazing powers. It is a bio-magnetic cross, which means it is surrounded by a surging force field. Antron calls this the Universal Life Force. At the right is a composition of an actual Kirlian photograph, or special photographic process discovered by parapsychologists in Russia. (Shot of my own hand during the process of healing. As you can see, the universal life force ray of my hand is flashing at energy rays as it leaps out of the eyes of Antron.

...of freedom from debt and the worries were slowly are lifted.

Do you have "other problems"? Tensions healed, anger and hostility gone? Then wear this Cross of Antron. And please send us your prayers for a powerful family life are answered.

Wear the Cross of Antron and let us "PRAISE" help you. Each letter I have prayed over and blessed in Jesus' Name.

Yes, please write and tell me all the blessings you believe the Cross of Antron brought to you.

The only requirement that Antron and I ask for sharing this Cross with you is for you to write and tell us how it has blessed and helped you.

You may receive the Cross of Antron in sterling silver for the price listed below. Wear the Cross of Antron for a full year — like above and if at any time you are disappointed with the Cross of Antron your money will be refunded — at once, without question. It would be a thoughtful gesture on your part to write us and express to share with them in need. GIANT HOROSCOPE

By Suzy Sawyer

ARIES
March 21-April 19

As important planetary changes occurs this week. After five years in Scorpio, Uranus is now going into Sagittarius. There will be great personal and for scientific advancement over the next eight years. For Aries it will mean personal enlightenment as well as opportunities to travel.

Also some personal upsetting with new jobs or new homes. Be prepared to pack your bags. The influence begins now! This week you'll meet a close group of intelligent people. Many opportunities beckon, and involve this group. You may decide to help part-time instead of ducking everything at once.

A nice surprise arrives in the mail. A little package from a dear friend.

TAURUS
April 20-May 20

Taureans, although more homebound than Aries, will also be affected by the big planetary change this week. Throughout the rest of the year you can experiment and discover new interests that may move to a place quite different from where you are now in the next few months.

This week, Uranus in Sagittarius gives more motivation to work on a variety of things at one time. You may be trying with the idea of a new job. Work in the arts, even a hobby brings much pleasure now. Your mental energies run high.

There are good successes with your spouse and pleasant times with children. Money you store up money for a big event. Firm up plans for changes

GEMINI
May 21-June 20

Geminis will have a rollercoaster week. Problems with friends under your particular time. Someone is giving you the cold shoulder. This person was under you had overlooked or you are expected to make up for lost hours.

Also this week you should get a financial investment and find a bargain. Only a small amount of money is needed. Anytime after the end you could be a real door to travel or don't wait for a "sure" thing. Your chances of monetary gain are very good.

The week also offers an enjoyable time with a younger family member. Cultural interests go splendidly. You may avoid contact with an ex-partner because of new personal problems.

CANCER
June 21-July 22

You are even more ambitious than last week, Cancer, about projects at work. The planetary change of Uranus into Sagittarius gives you more fire and spunk. As career rolls along, romance takes a back seat. Though you are finding many more interesting friends, your love life may be standing still. You don't seem to meet as you find plenty of attention from good friends.

You may also have several sources of income. Finances have certainly picked up from last year's deadbeat. Your physical health is energetic but look to natural foods for a better dietary plan.

You're burning a lot of energy and should be careful to eat right.

LEO
July 23-August 22

You feel like tackling interesting projects for pleasure this week. Let concentrate on home activities and redecorating. You find plenty to stir you out of your rut. Your horoscope says that they shouldn't be, so make up your mind before some bad financial weather hits in March, April and May. If you stop goofing off and get serious about making money you'll do very well.

Look into routine for investment purposes in the next few weeks. Work by members are in and you'll enjoy doing your spend more time with them.

Your career is doing well but outside interests open more to you. Art, Dance and creative theater work could become a second interest.

VIRGO
August 23-September 22

You may still feel pressure from working a heavy pressure has work. Virgo. The person in question is now giving you the silent treatment. Out of guilt, you may try to patch things up, but this person has had marriage in mind for a long time.

Your financial knowledge is interesting. With that big financial boost at the end of last year, you have put some good things into practice. You realize now that all that glorious money wasn't as much, even though you still have quite a lot. You're stopping back from lavish spending.

Some dear friends in March, April and May will help you through three uneven financial months. On the job activities are lively.

LIBRA
September 23-October 22

A little watchdog may bark at your shadows now, Libra. You may be in the position of having to discipline a friend at work. Be much for friendship over duty.

Your rising habits have been poor. Watching an quick snacks on a sub-surface but most meals has put to stop. With Mercury in Aquarius this week communications are smooth and friendly correspondence settled in the mail. There may be disagreeable complaints to cope with on the job at work's end.

Your romantic life is getting more interesting with a new encounter with someone who sparks your interest. You have a relationship in the background, but can't resist flirting.

SCORPIO
October 23-November 21

You are still concerned with health matters this week, Scorpio. Dieting and exercise in particular. It's an answer with daily chores and errands, such as walking to the store or vacuuming aside weights while vacuuming the house. Make self improvement a pleasure.

Friends and career matters are giving you a few pains. You get a chance to straighten out some disagreeable situations that may have progressed through the last few weeks. Certain people have demanded up much of your hours.

Like Leo, you should work over the next few weeks on improve finances. Trips in the outdoors may occur for you here.

SAGITTARIUS
November 22-December 21

Work and career matters are still a problem and may linger directly on some financial consideration that is binding you. The change of Uranus into your own sun sign, Sagittarius, will do much to generate changes in your whole life now. This will include, to your delight, more travel and widespread interests.

Be aware that romantic study can become a object of jealous influence in your life. Self confidence will become a great motivating force. This week offers pleasure in dinner with creative cooking and time spent with loved ones.

With personal career matters a bit sour, you'll find new career opportunities very tempting.

CAPRICORN
December 23-January 19

Business proposals that come to you must be carefully explored especially if there is money involved. Curb your natural tendency to be trusted work at the risk of hurting the feelings of a friend.

A short trip for a business reason will give you a change of scene at the weekend, and some unexpected pleasure at home. Romance is in the air so make the most of it.

A disagreement with someone close to you will make for an uneasy feeling at home. But if you make an effort to patch things up all will be well.

Look for a pleasant hour in the mail late in the week, and a relaxed, pleasant evening for Lead Capricorns to attend.

AQUARIUS
January 20-February 18

Aquarians may be living in someone else's shadow these days. Your dedication is very sincere for this person or group of persons. You are in the role of "student."

As you learn more at work, you feel greatly appreciative of the people who've helped. Their attentions are becoming a part of you.

You can anticipate short trips that involve business or the post weeks to. Family matters may have partially caused disruptions after last week's letter bomb. This week holds a special dinner with an interesting companion. You aren't concerned with finances now and enjoying spending lavishly on gifts and entertainment. You receive a call from an old friend.

PISCES
February 19-March 20

You may be involved with local, state or national politics at present, Pisces. In the past political may have fascinated you but here you find the church unbearable. A diversion towards the arts will be seen in upcoming weeks.

Anything to do with food or entertainment can become a hobby, occupation or a career. It will fulfill your present needs and be greatly rewarding. You may already have started something among designers, artists, musicians, writers and actors. Anything to do with these image industries will make you feel right at home.

Your great intellectual nature finds a happy outlet through the arts. It may take time to be patient.

This week's birthday: John Travolta — Feb. 18,

John Travolta (the hot-haired movie property, was born Feb. 18, 1954 in Englewood, New Jersey. John is an Aquarius. This makes him outgoing and friendly but with two planets in Pisces he has an introverted, spiritual side. Pisces planets enhance the emotional sensitivity and when he falls in love, it always seems "meant to be" that way.

With four planets retrograde at his birth, John has had a big uphill battle to achieving success. It has created fears or even mishaps for him.

Jupiter in Gemini gives John a great sense of humor and a quick, sharp wit.

The family downsizes we see in his early history with a personal sorrow, at the same subject as Pisces but he can speak more without and show pausing.

He has a great need for emotional stability on stage and in his personal life. His talents for both dramatics and methods bring out the best of his close natural creative drives.

Mars in Sagittarius makes John a natural traveler and a wide journey. It also gives him a talented but the character of power. Saturn in Scorpio gives both a love of secrecy. He may have secret interests about life in the universe and will at some time in his life delve into psychic learning.

He is a candidate for property with his moon in Virgo. He can be slightly annoyed by quick fashions or disinterested.

Amazing 16-year-old predicts weather for businesses with uncanny accuracy

John Travers is only 16, but his weather predictions are so amazing that many businessmen depend on him for information that is vital to their success.

"We bet our daily operations on him because his forecasts are so dependable," a snowplow company president said of John who's a high school sophomore.

John heads Weather Command, a Kansas City, Mo., firm that caters to clients who need personalized service.

"If there is bad weather coming, I call the clients and let them know," John told The NEWS. "And if there is snow coming, I'll predict how much there will be and when to expect it.

"I'm more specific than the National Weather Service and can help companies like snowplow companies gear up ahead of time."

"He's an amazing kid," said Tim Fox, development director at Kansas City radio station KCUN, which airs John's forecasts several times a day.

"His predictions are very accurate, and the radio station relies on them with complete confidence."

John gives the weather reports to six radio stations from Montana to Alabama and provides snow information to several municipal governments and private companies.

"He's worth every cent we pay him," said Robert Simpson, president of O'Malley Simpson, a concrete construction and snowplow company.

Subscribers pay $150 to $600 a month, depending on the data they require. John gets up every morning at 3:30 and carries forecasts to his basement weather center.

There he checks his National Weather Service teletype machine, plots weather patterns for the day and calls it on five live radio weather reports.

He is joined by three of his staff of 11 volunteer high school students, who work until they leave for school at 8 a.m. They converge after school at 2 p.m. and work through early evening. Often when bad weather is on its way, they stay up all night to advise clients of the latest developments.

"I hope to someday run the largest private meteorological forecasting firm in the country," said John, who admits he's only an "average to slightly above average" student.

"We are already self-supporting, though we're not earning any profit yet because we're putting it all back into equipment."

Amazing John Travers, 16, forecasts the weather

Wacky group of taxpayers airs its fury

Angry taxpayers are using their political views through a wacky group called Mad as Hell, Inc.

The group was born of an elderly grandmother's struggle against rats after the Ventura County, Calif., Board of Supervisors voted themselves a 40 percent pay raise.

Roberta Bickerstaff, 56-year-old housewife and other irate taxpayers gathered at a board meeting to protest the increase. She stood up and said such arrogance made her "mad as hell."

Others rallied round. They circulated a petition to put a referendum rescinding the raises on the June ballot and got 9,000 signatures. Those names now make up the membership of Mad as Hell, Inc.

"Pretty catchy, don't you think?" asked Mrs. Bickerstaff of the name. "It gives us identity as an organization. People think of Peter Finch in that movie saying to go to the window and lean out and yell, 'I'm mad as hell and I'm not going to take it anymore.' Now, maybe they'll think of us."

The group is very loosely organized and has no meetings. Its primary activity is a local radio talk show that gives citizens a chance to call in and tell why they're mad as hell.

My Feet Were Killing Me...Until I Discovered the Miracle in Germany!

It was the European trip I had always dreamed about. I had the time and money to go where I wanted—see what I wanted. But I soon learned that money and time don't mean much when your feet hurt too much to walk. After a few days of sightseeing my feet were killing me.

Oh, I tried to keep going. In Paris I limped through Notre Dame and along the Champs-Elysees. And I went up in the Eiffel Tower although I can't honestly say I remember the view. My feet were so tired and sore my whole body ached. While everybody else was having a great time, I was in my hotel room. I didn't even feel like sitting in a sidewalk cafe.

The whole trip was like that until I got to Hamburg, Germany. There, by accident, I happened to hear about an exciting breakthrough for anyone who suffers from sore, aching feet and legs.

This wonderful invention was a custom-made foot support called Flexible Featherspring. When I got a pair and slipped them into my shoes my pain disappeared almost instantly. The flexible shock absorbing support they gave my feet was like cradling them on a cushion of air. I could walk, stand, even run. The relief was truly a miracle.

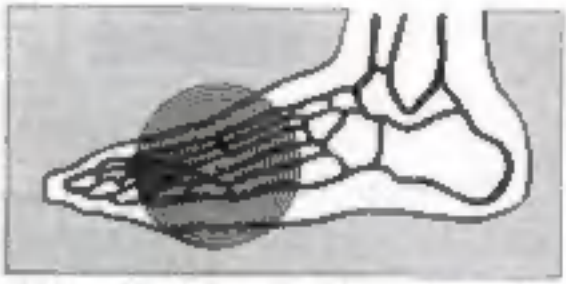
And just one pair was all I needed! I learned that women also can wear them—even with sandals and open backed shoes. They're completely invisible.

Imagine how dumbfounded I was to discover that these miraculous devices were sold only in Europe. Right then I determined that I would share the miracle I discovered in Germany with my own countrymen.

Over a quarter million Americans including those who have retired—many with foot problems far more severe than mine—have experienced this blessed relief for themselves.

Here's why Feathersprings work for them and why they can work for you. These supports are like nothing you've ever seen before. They are custom formed and made for your feet alone! Unlike conventional devices, they actually increase the youthful elastic support that Nature originally intended your feet to have.

Whatever your problem—corns, calluses, pain in the balls of your feet, burning nerve ends, painful ankles, old injuries, backaches or just generally sore, aching feet. Flexible Featherstrings will bring you relief with every step you take or your money back.



Don't suffer pain and discomfort needlessly. If your feet hurt, the miracle of Germany can help you. Write for more detailed information. There is no obligation whatsoever. No salesman will call. Just fill out the coupon below and mail it today.

WHAT PEOPLE SAY ABOUT THE MIRACLE:

"Received my wife's Featherstrings two days ago. They are super—neither of us can believe the results. She has had terrible feet for years, already no pain. Incidentally, Art's sore knee is much better . . . As a retired physician, this result is amazing."
Dr. C.O.C./Tucson, Arizona

"I have been wearing your Featherspring Foot Supports for over a year now and I just want to let you know the great comfort I am experiencing. Prior to wearing them, the pain and swelling in both feet and legs, especially the right, made me feel so drained. I feel, say a million thanks for my Featherspring Foot Supports. I feel free to say so, some, I have recommended them to many of our Sisters suffering from foot trouble."
Sister Mary Patrina C.S.J.

"I feel that these orders are the best money I ever spent on my feet or rather the best buy I ever made."
Mrs. E. E./Theresa, Wisconsin

Ghost of beautiful woman casts enchanting spell over a village

Two Byron, Ill., residents show off a scary line at "Phantom Lady" T-shirts. The shirts show the lovely ghost jogging

The ghost of a young woman is haunting a remote village, her beauty weaving a spell of [illegible] and enchantment as she runs pearl-white in the moonlight.

"The Phantom Lady of Kennedy Hill Road," as she is called by Byron, Ill., police, has been seen by numerous people, including many of the area's most reliable citizens.

The strangely lovely ghost wanders along the cornfields on each side of the road in the cold hours between dusk and dark. She's only in Mary's sister's mind.

"We came upon her suddenly," said schoolteacher Clair Smith, after she and her daughter saw the phantom.

"I screamed to my daughter 'It's a girl,' she said. 'Then we passed her, and I saw that she is not part of our time or of our world.'

Mrs. Smith and other eyewitnesses say the ghost is of a slender female about 5 feet 7 inches tall, beautiful, and in her early 20s. Her complexion is described as milky white to pearl white.

Sheriff's Department officers in Byron told The NEWS they have patrolled the Kennedy Hill Road area but can't determine the phantom's identity.

Bumper-to-bumper automobiles now jam the haunted country road, and Byron has become an enchanted village as carriage crowds scratch for the phantom's face. One sporting goods store is even selling T-shirts decorated with a drawing of the beautiful wraith.

The haunted area is flat with few trees or other hiding places. Witnesses who have rushed after the phantom say she simply vanishes into thin air.

"I saw the girl disappear in an open field," said David Trenholm, 19.

"And I still can't get her out of my mind. She was very beautiful."

Trenholm and his passenger Judy Harrold saw the phantom about 9 p.m., when the temperature was ten degrees — yet she wore only underwear and "some kind of scarf around her neck."

Jean Thomas, 30, got close enough to the ghastly clad ghost one "bitter night in winter that she was wearing fingernail polish.

But Linda Reiche could tell only that the "mystery woman was not flesh colored but was a pearl white."

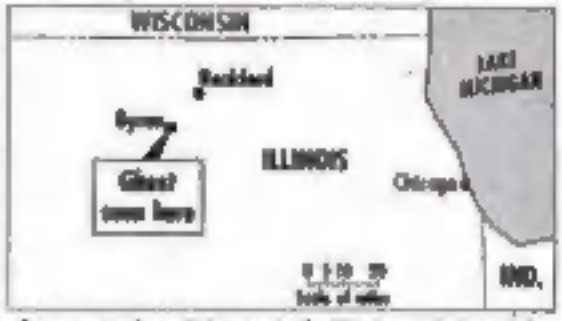
One woman spotted the phantom on four different nights, once nude and three times in bizarre costumes — considering the frigid winter temperatures.

"She wore shorts and a halter top, or a mini skirt, or a long evening dress with up the front," the woman said. "She was never dressed for the kind of weather we were having."

Byron residents suspect the phantom is the ghost of one of three women: Ann Bergman, married with her boyfriend in nearby Rockford in 1963, a local couple's daughter who "met a violent death" 20 years ago, or someone who was buried in an ancient cemetery where the enchanted village overlooks now lie.

The cemetery was plowed under about 25 years ago by a farmer who believed none of the people buried there had any living relatives.

But many believe the ghost's wild beauty will forever flutter in the moonlight as she mourns this unholy disturbance of her last resting place.



Byron was a sleepy little town in the Illinois cornbelt until the ghost turned it into an enchanted village.

Zany man's a dead ringer for Popeye the Sailorman

From the corncob pipe jammed into his mouth to the sailor cap perched on his head, Robert Salling is a dead ringer for Popeye the Sailorman.

Unlike Robin Williams who plays Popeye in the current movie, Salling doesn't need Hollywood makeup artists to re-create his look-alike image.

"I'm a better looking Popeye than Mork is," chuckled the 57-year-old retired Army cook who's been entertaining kids and their parents for years.

Salling, of East Liverpool, Ohio, can dance on roller skates. He tells jokes. Above all, he looks so much like Popeye that audiences think the cartoon character has come to life to spread laughter and joy.

"Some of the children think I really am Popeye," Salling laughed. "One boy asked me to come home with him and whip his daddy 'cause his dad had me licked the night before."

Salling wears a sailor suit, a cap, the pipe thrust at just the right angle in his mouth. He squints, grimaces, smiles and even talks just like the cartoon character.

"I've been married for 38 years and my wife's name is Dorothy but everybody calls her Olive Oyl," Salling said. "She laughs about it — and at me — what else can she do?"

It was Salling's young son who pointed out how much he resembled the character who gave spinach a big name.

"I had a toothbrush in my mouth and he walked in holding a Popeye comic book. He was 4 and he said, 'Dad, you look just like Popeye.'"

"I looked in the mirror and squinted my eye and the wheels started turning," Salling said.

He practiced Popeye looks in the mirror. He imitated his speech, "I yam what I yam and that's all what I yam." He learned the 'Arf Arf' laugh.

And for 14 years he has made people feel good. Before he retired from the Army in 1970 he put on shows at military camps and did USO shows.

Now, he entertains at parties, grinning his toothless smile from ear to ear and the sailor cap cocked to his head.

"It doesn't bother me that they got Robin Williams to play the movie part," he said. "As long as I can make people laugh, I'm happy."

Comic Robin Williams, left, got the film role of "Popeye" but retired sailor Robert Salling really lives the part.

natural prostate rejuvenation

"Your marriage can be as happy as ever!"

IT'S POSSIBLE TO REPAIR AND REBUILD THE PROSTATE, TO GIVE IT NEW HEALTH AND POWER, TO RENEW POTENCY AND VITALITY! AND TO DO IT IN JUST 4 TO 8 WEEKS — NATURALLY — WITHOUT SURGERY!

By Carleton Fredericks
Nutritional Science Writer

Prostate disorders are often referred to as "the scourge of the Western male." They're widespread among American males, and many are time bombs that must be defused by all those who suffer from prostate problems—and by those who wish to prevent prostate problems from ever occurring.

It will tell you about a revolutionary new product called ZN Mega-Mineral Tea, about Nutritional Life Corporation and the company that developed the tea, and about some important research on the natural relief of prostate disorders.

THE MESSAGE IS THAT THERE IS NATURAL, DIETARY HELP FOR PROSTATE SUFFERERS.

ZN Mega-Mineral Tea can help repair and rebuild the prostate, restore vitality and potency, help bring the pressure back to natural balance, health and power. And here's how it may work in the future:

AN ANNOUNCEMENT I AM AUTHORIZED TO MAKE—

Maybe you have prostate problems yourself. Maybe a friend or a loved one has such problems. Or perhaps you just want to help make sure that you never develop prostate problems. Nutritional Life has authorized me to include the following announcement as part of the material in this article:

"We want every American who has a prostate problem to have a chance—without financial risk—to try new ZN Mega-Mineral Tea. We will send anyone interested a 30-day supply (60 servings) of this tea, along with our complimentary report titled 'NATURAL PROSTATE HEALTH.' If you feel our tea doesn't help you, then just send us back the amount you didn't use within 30 days. Even if it's only one tea bag, we'll refund your entire cost. But we'll let you have our report, 'NATURAL PROSTATE HEALTH,' in any event."

HERE'S WHY NUTRITIONAL LIFE CORP. MAKES THIS UNUSUAL OFFER—

Even though I'm a professional writer on nutritional science and nutritional products, I'm often really surprised when I see and try some of the products that are offered. And my first reaction was the obvious question:

"How can you be sure of the prostate healing powers of ZN Mega-Mineral Tea that you're willing to make such a unique offer?"

HERE'S WHAT THEY TOLD ME—

Nutritional Life Corp. was ready with an answer. And it was backed by published documentation. This is a 3-medicine research report on prostate disorders now listed at the Cook County Hospital in Chicago. It was published by researchers at the nationally famous Center for the Study of Prostatic Diseases. It involved 700 patients who suffered from a variety of prostate problems. And it took two years to complete.

The results were a major breakthrough in conventional urology. Many previously relief. But [illegible] discovered that prostate problems could also be prevented and corrected naturally. They found that [illegible] research proved conclusively that ZN Mega-Mineral Tea was absolutely necessary for a healthy prostate gland.

—most prostate patients are low in the minerals contained in ZN Mega-Mineral Tea.

—adding these elements to the diet can help restore the use of vigor and potency caused by prostate problems.

—giving potent amounts of these elements in the diet helps correct prostate problems—without surgery.

NUTRITIONAL LIFE CORP.

Nutritional Life Corp. was founded by a group of dedicated research nutritionists who had natural health as their primary goal. Their slogan: "Put good nutrition back in your pocket when prostate problems arise."

ZN MEGA-MINERAL TEA—

A number of boxes were considered to developing ZN Mega-Mineral Tea. Nutritional Life Corp. knew that the modern diets are poor in nutrition. And that the [illegible] study emphasized that the minerals in ZN Mega-Mineral Tea helped the prostate gland absorb and maintain vigor naturally—without surgery! So ZN Mega-Mineral Tea is packed [illegible] formulated to be one of the most potent sources available. And it's also a delightfully delicious and refreshing cup of herbal tea. All natural ingredients, no drugs.

Two relaxing cups a day for a period of from 4 to 8 weeks are suggested. And it's a good idea for all men over 35 to drink it every day to help prevent prostate problems from arising or reoccurring.

ZN Mega-Mineral Tea is available only from Nutritional Life Corp., and it comes in a box of 100 tea bags. We guarantee to carry a bag with you when you're away from home for a healthy ZN refresher in your prostate gland. You get the TRUE REPORT—NATURAL PROSTATE HEALTH. And you have Nutritional Life Corp.'s no nonsense guarantee of complete satisfaction or your money back. If ZN Mega-Mineral Tea doesn't bring you the relief you want, you'll have lost nothing—but you can keep the free report, NATURAL PROSTATE HEALTH. And if ZN Mega-Mineral Tea does bring you the relief from prostate problems that it has brought to so many others then I'm sure you'll agree that it's the best gift of the greatest value of your lifetime!

NO RISK RUSH ORDER FORM:

YES, rush me a box of 100 bags of your new ZN Mega-Mineral Tea along with your FREE REPORT, NATURAL PROSTATE HEALTH. I enclose my check or money order for [illegible] per bag. I understand that your guarantee is no risk. If I'm not satisfied for any reason, I may return the unused portion within 30 days for a full refund. The report, NATURAL PROSTATE HEALTH, is mine to keep in any event.

Stone-age knives are sharper than surgeons' scalpels

Surgeons would leave fewer scars on their patients if they'd switch back in history and use Stone-age knives.

That's the remarkable discovery of Dr. Jeffrey Flennikan of Washington State University — one of 16 people in the world who've learned how to make the stone knives.

The knives, he says, are actually made from vulgarly glass called obsidian — and were first used thousands of years ago.

The knives are razor sharp — sharper in fact than the finest steel blade — and do far less damage to tissue than regular surgeons' scalpels, he says.

Dr. Flennikan says he's given several of the stone scalpels to surgeons and has compared the results to actual surgery.

Scars left by the stone knives are extremely thin compared to those left by a traditional scalpel.

Dr. Flennikan says he's been learning how to make the knives for 15 years — and has accidentally cut himself many times with the supersharp instruments.

"It's really remarkable how quickly the cuts heal. Even one that goes to the bone is closed in a day and completely healed in less than one week," he says.
